Fixed fee agreement likely

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - It appears likely that for the first time since 2003, the town will have a fixed fee agreement for legal services.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Michael Newhouse was away from his office last week and the beginning of this week, but he believes that the town and its town counsel are well on the way to finalizing the deal put forth during its last meeting.

"I've just returned to town and there have been some meaningful communication during this past week," Newhouse said on Wednesday morning. "I would prefer not to offer an detailed information until the Board can regroup on Monday night (September 24th). I will say, however, that I'm extremely confident that we'll finalize it by Monday."

The town has struggled with escalating legal costs since 2003 when the Board of Selectmen voted to abandon its long held practice of paying a fixed amount per year for its legal services.

In December 2003, Town Counsel Paul DeRensis, of the law firm Deutsch Williams, told selectmen that the agreed upon compensation of $132,800 per annum was resulting in a loss

DA alleges embezzlement of more than $100,000 by contractor

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Three Wilmington business people, one man and two women, have been indicted by a Middlesex County Grand Jury following a months-long investigation, according to Middlesex District Attorney Gerry Leone.

A total of 36 indictments came down against Peter DeGennaro, Charlene Connors, and Donna Wayman for their connection with home building/home improvement services. DeGennaro and Connors were indicted for embezzlement by a fiduciary (5 counts each), operation without a certificate of registration

(2 counts each), abandonment or failure to perform a project (5 counts each), advertisement without proper registration number (1 count each), failure to pay subcontractors (3 counts each), and larceny over $250 (1 count each). Wayman was indicted for abandonment or failure to perform a project (1 count) and failure to pay subcontractors (1 count).

Felony embezzlement charges are punishable by up to 10 years in state prison.

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Memorial Library was recently awarded a $20K grant from Idearc, Inc. in partnership with the American Library Association (ALA). Wilmington was one of only three libraries nationwide to receive the honor. Specifically, the grant was awarded to libraries that were in need of a makeover, or were in the process of a renovation project.

No one could have been more thrilled, or surprised for that matter, about the news than Library Director Christina Stewart.

"We didn't apply for the grant," said Stewart. "I got a phone call from the ALA informing us of the win and I was completely surprised about the news. It was wonderful and unexpected. It was like it just fell out of the sky!"

Wilmington native spends summer teaching in Africa

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

NAMIBIA, AFRICA - Sixteen years after graduating from Wilmington Memorial High School, Kacy Soderquist found herself teaching in a classroom in a very rural part of Namibia, Africa. Armed with a BA in English from Regis College, a Masters in Education from UMass Boston, and 10 years of experience teaching high school English, the Lynnfield teacher found herself still a bit emotionally unprepared for the realities of the educational system in Namibia.

Soderquist's teaching placement was arranged by WorldTeach, an organization that works through Harvard's Center for International Development to place volunteers all over the world depending upon the needs of each country. She was part of a program called Namibia Vision 2030, which aims to have Namibia tech savvy by the year 2030. WorldTeach donated 30 TV/VCR decoders and a bouquet of educational programs. The Namibian government chose 30 villages to receive them. Soderquist was one of the 30 volunteers chosen to deliver and install the equipment and also to teach the teachers to use the equipment and educational programs.

The school in Talismanus is in the middle of a communal farming region. Since the kids live so far away, the school provided simple dormitory style housing for the students and the volunteers. Soderquist had her own small room with a toilet and a tub to boil water in. She knows she was fortunate, as many volunteer placements did not have such luxurious accommodations. Still, there were plenty of insects, no hot water, no grocery store, and no regular transportation out of the village. There were no fruits, vegetables or bottled water in the village. As it was four-and-a-half hours to the nearest city, it was a whole day's journey to go grocery shopping.

So what were her expectations going into this experience?

"I would say that going into this experience I hoped that I would be able to serve a population of people who have historically been minimized," Soderquist said. "As an educator, I firmly believe that life's greatest gift is education and that it is the key to personal growth, economic freedom, and understanding who you are as a person in your family, your community, and your world. I wanted to share that gift. I also hoped to make a connection with a group of students in another country with whom my own high school students could become pen pals and learn on a

Friends of Harnden Tavern host Harvest Festival this Sunday

By JULIE FENNELL

WILMINGTON - Have you ever wondered what it was like to live in Wilmington during colonial times? Wouldn't it be interesting to jump into a time machine that could take you back to the eighteenth and nineteenth century?

Through their fourth annual Harvest Festival, the Friends of the Harnden Tavern are offering an opportunity to glimpse back in time and experience a piece of yesteryear. The Festival takes place this Sunday, September 23 from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Col. Joshua Harnden Tavern and Wilmington Town Museum at 430 Salem Street (Route 62).

Admission is free to the public.

Friends member Joyce Murray has been instrumental in organizing this year's event. Murray encourages adults and children of all ages to stop by.

"The kids will get to learn about history and at the same time enjoy a hands-on experience from doing things like dipping their own candles, stamp pressing fabric and grinding flour," Murray said.

The nineteenth century carriage house will be open to display the agricultural tool exhibit, and tours of the historic tavern will offer the chance to see a beehive oven and an open fireplace with eighteenth/nineteenth century cooking equipment; the Franklin fireplace; a reputed hiding spot on the Underground Railroad; a collection of spinning wheels; old fashioned rope beds; original wood floors; windowpanes with antique glass; an early 20th century grandfather clock in working order; Mrs. Hiller's alligator handrail; and many photographs and other historical artifacts.

"It's not just for kids. Adults will enjoy it too," said Murray. "If you're interested in taking a tour, seeing the colonial herb garden, or learning more about the Friends of the Harnden Tavern, stop in for a visit."

It's Your Money

TAX-DEFERRED ACCOUNTS GROW FASTER

Pure arithmetic indicates that a tax-deferred account will grow faster than one that must pay taxes on each year's growth. More, at the time of retirement, this larger account will enable the owner to take out more at retirement, even limiting distributions to the same percentage of the total.

Say you can put $4,000 a year into savings for retirement. Into an ordinary, taxable account, your $4,000 may in turn only be $3,000 if you must pay taxes on the money first. You can put the whole $4,000 into the tax-deferred account (and maybe even deduct that $4,000 from your taxable income).

Fast forward 30 years, with the same rate of contributions, with ordinary rates of return, and the tax-deferred account will be worth almost double the account that's paid taxes over the years. When it's time to take distributions at retirement, there's more to take out of the tax-deferred account, even with taxes due.

Retirement planning calls for a lot of dollar-and-cents figuring. Let us help you at:

will be held on Wednesday, September 12th, at noon, at the Pyne Elementary School in Lowell.

Sen. Steven Panagiotakos (D-Lowell), Chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said the program provides critical services to children and families who might otherwise have nowhere else to turn.

"Socially and emotionally challenged children often face many substantial obstacles in achieving success. The YES program helps them overcome those challenges, and achieve their full potential," said Panagiotakos. "I was very pleased to be able to work with my legislative colleagues in obtaining funding that would help YES reach even more children."

The program provides parents with free education programming, and links families with available resources from other agencies. In addition, YES runs after-school and vacation programs for children with social and emotional disabilities. Participants in the program are taught how to express their talents and achieve success. With the new money, the program will be able to provide a greater number of services to area children and families faced with disabilities.

"The state grant will allow us to expand our program to run additional after school activities that will help academic advancement, and promote social skill while having fun," said Board President Diane Porter. "This grant will help us to continue pointing them towards a better tomorrow."

State Representative Thomas Golden echoed Porter's sentiment, and stressed the importance of funding such a program.

"The focus here is inclusion," Golden said. "The funding will help children to overcome barriers, and help them lead happy lives like the rest of their peers."

Justin O'Neil Day

All are invited to help celebrate the life of a fallen youth

WILMINGTON - The town will be teeming with activity and community spirit during the third annual 3-mile walk/run and family fun day to benefit the Justin Andrew O'Neil Scholarship Fund to be held this Sunday, September 23rd.

Justin was 16 years old and a junior at WHS when tragically struck down on January 6, 2004.

The community came together to celebrate the life of Justin on June 13, 2004 for a day packed with family activities, including a three-mile race/walk.

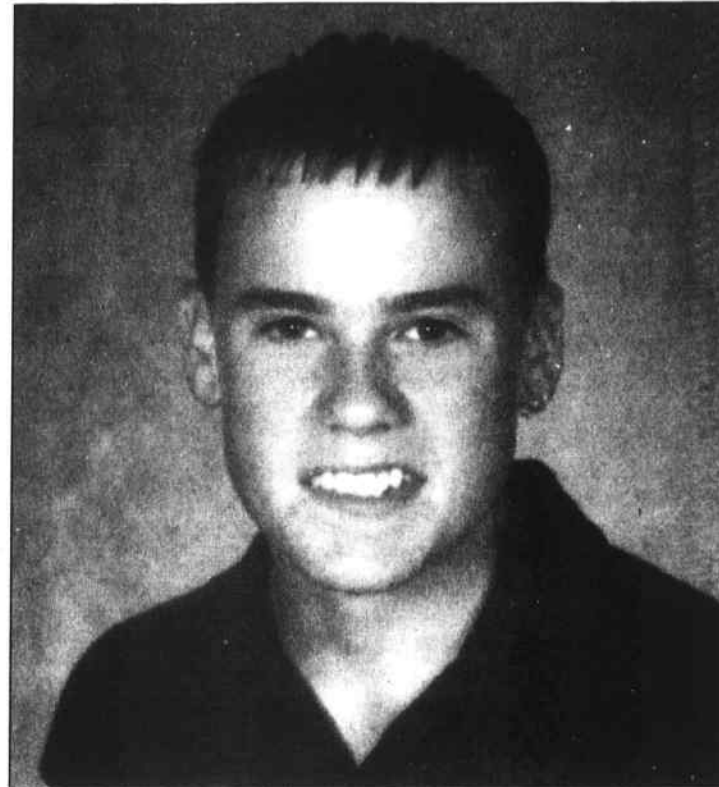

In 2005, the year that Justin was scheduled to graduate from high school, the event was even bigger, resulting in $8,000 worth of scholarship money awarded to Wilmington graduating seniors from the Justin Andrew O'Neil Memorial Scholarship Fund.

This year, the event will take place on Sunday, September 23rd.

In addition to the 3-mile walk/run, those attending will be treated to all kinds of family-oriented events and activities, including a cook out on the Common, popcorn, cotton candy, Hawaiian shaved ice, face painting, DJ Travel-N-Sounds, T-shirts and a raffle with many items donated by family, friends, and local businesses.

The Walk/Run will begin at 1:15 p.m. with registration taking place at 12:30. There will be a modest $15 registration fee for adults. There will be no fee for participating children 12 years old or younger.

The race, which is not intended as a competition, but rather a spirited walk will begin at the Wilmington High School tennis courts. Last year's three-mile course wound around Wildwood Street, Federal Street, Middlesex Avenue and left walkers and runners right back on the Common.

Sponsor sheets, while not required, are currently available at the Recreation Department at Town Hall, Elia's Country Store and Jimmie's Homemade Ice Cream. Sponsor sheets may also be picked up at the registration table on the day of the race.

The race will go on, rain or shine.

The O'Neil family is inviting one and all to come and help celebrate Justin's life.

"We hope that everyone will come out and join us on September 23rd and we especially look forward to seeing all of Justin's friends and classmates," said Cheri O'Neil, Justin's mother. "The entire community has reached out to us in so many ways during such difficult times. We look forward to spending the day with our friends and with the friends we'll be meeting for the first time on Sunday."

All proceeds from this weekend will benefit the Justin Andrew O'Neil Scholarship Fund. The O'Neil family will choose scholarship recipients and will consider grades, strength of character, service to the community, and strength of leadership as determining factors.

"It will be someone with the same qualities that Justin had," Cheri said. "We hope that the scholarship can be given out for years to come to honor Justin's memory. We want to keep the scholarship going as a tribute to the zest for life that Justin had."

Letters to the editor

Remembering a friend

Dear Editor,

Last week Tewksbury's Paul Sullivan passed away after courageously fighting a long battle against cancer. Paul was an inspiration to many as well as a man of integrity. It is because of Paul Sullivan's leadership that Tewksbury adopted the Town Manager form of government. Paul had the vision of providing exceptional governmental services to the people of Tewksbury. I can fondly remember watching Selectman's meetings with Paul serving as chairman. Paul made these meetings fun and interesting with his quick wit, while always striving to do what was right for the people.

Below is a poem entitled "The Sullivan's" which when I read, I think of Paul:

Everywhere that I go there are Sullivans;
On land high and low there are Sullivans;
By the mountain or sea by the lake or the lea
There are Sullivans;

And there're good folks to know are the Sullivan's Everyone tells you so of the Sullivan's;
The Lord knows they are good,
So he made all he could, of the Sullivan's

They can fill any place these same Sullivan's;
With the best of the race are the Sullivan's;
They are kind folks and true, they are good neighbors to you
Are the Sullivan's.

It can't be you've no friend name of Sullivan!
If you haven't I'll lend you a Sullivan;
But you must give him back,
For my life would be black, short one Sullivan

There's no traitor yet bore the name of Sullivan;
But heroes by the score are called Sullivan;
Muster rolls that I know, carry row after row
Of men, Sullivan's

There is only one place with no Sullivan;
And it hasn't a trace of a Sullivan;
Now its name I'll not tell,
For you all know it well,
There's no Sullivan

There are places that wait for the Sullivan's;
Straight through St. Peter's gait go the Sullivan's;
I'll be glad when I go, if I stay in the row
With the Sullivan's.

Rest in peace my friend,
From your friend,
Sean Sullivan

Time for the party to end

Dear Editor,

We live in the neighborhood that has a hang out-party house. The area of this house is, Beeching Ave, Faulkner Ave, and Sudbury St. Every night this starts between 4 and 6 and goes on until about 2 or 3 in the morning. We call the police and don't need to give the address, only the last name and they respond every time.

There are so many kids there that they park all over the street and lawn. We suspect they are the ones who have taken down the stop and street sign twice in the last week. We believe it is they since they are the only ones that park under the sign and the only ones who are out at all hours of the night and can do this after everyone goes to bed and tries to sleep.

Residents that have kids between high school and 20, come by and see if your kid thinks this a great place to hang out, as there are no parents that reside at this residence - they only come by to get their mail once a week or so. When they have been spoken to about this problem, they say there is nothing they can do. NICE.

We have given up on calling the police as when the police come to talk to them, the kids leave and come right back to party. We are paying taxes for the DPW to make new stop signs and street signs and the police every time they have to come to this residence. There is not a night that these parties don't go on and we are so tired of calling the police that we have stopped.

We invite parents and residents to come by and park their cars to listen to what we have to listen to every night. Please come and see if your car or kid is here so you can get involved and help us with this ongoing problem. Please be careful as there is no stop sign and we don't want anyone getting hurt or killed. Please come by, please, and write back to the paper with any helpful suggestions.

If you work the late shift or are coming home from work at night, please park and listen to the language and watch them drinking and throwing their blunt paper wrappers, not to mention the other wrappers that end up in our yards and streets. I won't say what the other wrappers are, but use your imagination and you would not want them in the streets where your kids live. Not any of our kids are allowed out after dinner, as we fear for their safety and for what they may see. PLEASE HELP!!!!!!

Please come by and park near this neighborhood and see what we have been living with all spring and summer and are paying taxes for the constant police visits.

Great program, great dept.

Dear Editor:

I want to thank everyone involved with the Recreation Department's Tiny Tots program. My husband and I were thrilled with the entire program. Linda Stillings is an amazing leader and prepared an organized and fun program. My children were delighted with all the different activities. The volunteers are a great group of teenagers - enthusiastic and helpful. I especially want to thank Diane Ferguson and Ashley for their patience with my son. He was not always too happy to be dropped off in the morning, but Mrs. Ferguson was able to put him at ease. We look forward to next year. The Town of Wilmington is lucky to have Debbie Cipriani and her incredible recreation department.

Sincerely,
Brenda McConologue

Fortnight in Review

by Jayne W. Miller

By IRON JENNY RACKHAM

With the beginning of autumn, we all start looking toward the familial bliss of upcoming holidays. Children scattered through the neighborhood dressed like freaks and begging for candy to rot their teeth. Or the homey image of a family Thanksgiving where your sister's kids are writing on your freshly painted walls and your father-in-law is sitting with his pants unzipped, yelling obscenities at the football game. And, could there be any more heartwarming an image than six women related only by marriage trying to feed an army of men and children Christmas dinner before the present-opening highs wear off?

This is why God gave us liquor stores. Therefore, in deference to the fear and loathing that may be coming over you just now along with hives, I submit that there is a new holiday just waiting for your attention, and yes, devotion. Hallmark has yet to get its ferocious claws into this holiday and I've only seen it celebrated at the local library, though I knew about it before that. That's right, you guessed it.

September 19th is International Talk like a Pirate Day!

Avast me Hearties and Ahoy! The time has come to let down ye hair, drink rum, search for gleaming booty, walk with a swagger and quote pirate movies all day. ARRGGH!

To celebrate properly, one must first devise an appropriate pirate name. There are myriad pirate name generators on the Web. I am not making this up. Just do a Google search and pick one you like. I prefer the sort that is a bit of a personality test and generates a mishmash of a name derived from real pirates. Who doesn't want to be a scurvy hound for one day?

As you can see in the byline, I am Iron Jenny Rackham, which is ludicrously accurate in a violent and Maggie Thatcher sort of way.

Next, preview your pirate holiday with a viewing of some sort of pirate movie. Princess Bride, with the Dread Pirate Roberts, or any of the Pirates of the Caribbean will do the trick.

Next, lay out your pirate outfit for the next day. There are several ways to go. The simple yet chic look Cary Elwes sported in Princess Bride, all sleek black and with a blindfold.

Alternatively, one might try more a velvet coat, puffy sleeved, dandy sort such as Captain Hook of Disney animated fame. Of course, there is always Smee for a fashion mentor.

I hear Johnny Depp channeled Keith Richards for his interpretation of Captain Jack Sparrow; keep that in mind before you get behind the wheel.

No pirate holiday is complete without a large, carnivorous, rum centered meal. It is a holiday, so one should feast as if your ship just attacked a British Man-O-War and landed enough Gold to feed the crew for a year. The alternative turns toward weevil infested hardtack, and that is no fun for anyone.

Remember to watch out for scallywags ready to ruin a perfectly good, non-commercialized holiday. Celebrate it now and keep it close to your heart as the rest of the season's holidays come ever closer. Remember, that pirate costume could even be recycled into a Santa suit for someone special, haul that puppy out on Christmas day and see what comes of it. Yo Ho Ho!

Back to routine and back to healthy living

September is the true 'back to routine' month. Kids are back in school, summer BBQs are a thing of the past, and all of our excuses for those sweet indulgencies have come to a minimum. If you think about it, Sept/Oct/and half of November are the months where we have no excuses—no summer parties, no holidays—just time to buckle down and get back into a solid routine.

Fortunately for Wilmington, the Transitions Lifestyle program will be returning this fall to Anytime Fitness to help community members get back into the swing of a healthy routine. Marina Fabrizio, Personal Trainer and Coach, is back at Anytime Fitness to facilitate the Transitions Lifestyle program. When asked to describe the program Fabrizio said, "We teach a diet following the low-glycemic index. The education centers around natural foods that don't excessively elevate blood sugar levels. We teach how the body reacts and absorbs food and what type of foods can be helpful to maintain low glycemic living. Couple that with exercise instruction at every class, and we are covering all the bases of healthy living."

This will be the 3rd consecutive Transitions class held at Anytime Fitness. "The results have been very impressive," says gym owner, Louie Piazza. "My clients are very interested in the classes and especially the results."

"The success rate has been tremendous", notes Janice Donovan RN & Transitions Lifestyle Coach. "The first class at Anytime Fitness was held in April. Nine clients lost a total of 30 pounds, 5.5% fat lost and 16 inches. This past summer, seven participants lost a total of 43 pounds, 6.6% fat lost and 15 inches."

"I think the reason for the success rate is that it is a realistic diet plan," says Judy Osborne - program participant. "I have tried many different diet plans, but I've really been able to stick to this one. I am down 2 sizes and 30 pounds and I feel great. I don't feel like I had to make drastic changes, I just became more educated about labels."

"The class format was perfect for me," says Steve Dupuis - former class participant. "Marina got our heart-rate up doing a 1 hour of exercise at the beginning of the class. I learned various moves that I can also do at home. Then we focused on class time that covered many different topics around healthy eating and living. I also felt that there was a lot of one-on-one time with Marina that helped me on my path."

The Transitions Lifestyle System is a national program that was brought to Wilmington by Dr. Stephen Jensen as a service to his patients. The program was initially offered to very small groups in Dr. Jensen's office, Wilmington.

Family Chiropractic. In previous articles you may have heard about the program expanding and moving to Anytime Fitness, here in Wilmington. But the word is getting out about the success of the Transitions Lifestyle program. New program locations will be opening this fall in Danvers, Methuen, Walpole, Salem, NH, and Londonderry, NH.

If you are interested in learning more about the Transitions Lifestyle program, the fall session at Anytime Fitness will kick off on Wednesday Sept 26th, with a Free Open House from 7 to 8:30 p.m., located at 3 Lopez Road, Wilmington. Please call the program administrator, Kathy Osborne, to reserve a seat: (978) 509-9789.

The History of the Heath Brook School

The Tewksbury Historical Society in conjunction with the Heath Brook School will have a membership meeting on October 18, 2007 at the Heath Brook School. The meeting will start at 6:00 pm and will be open to the public. The program is free and open to all ages.

The school is celebrating its 50th birthday this year with a series of activities each month to celebrate its history. Society Vice President, David E. Marcus will speak on the Heath Brook, what its name means, where the Heath Brook is located, the Native American presence in the Heath Brook district, the Scotch Heather Follies of 1861, historical areas and buildings within the Heath Brook district, and of course, the Heath Brook School. Mr. Marcus is a member of the Heath Brook staff and is the longest serving teacher in the Tewksbury Public School. He started teaching at Heath Brook School in 1968 and is serving in his 39th year. He has taught in each school located in Tewksbury and many of the schools that have been closed such as the Andover Street Wing, the East Street Wing, the Chandler Street Wing, the St.

Williams School (I.G.A.), the Foster School, the Shawshen School, the Ella Flemings School and the Center School. He served as President of the Tewksbury Historical Society from 2001-2004. That evening he will discard his Physical Education sneakers, t-shirt and shorts for a suit and tie. That alone will be worth rare look at Heath Brook history!

This is the first Membership Meeting in 2007-2008 of Tewksbury Historical Society. The Society was created in 1993 and is dedicated to preserving and educating the public about Tewksbury history. The Society Store will offer pictures, items of historical interest, and drawings for sale relating to Tewksbury history. The Society has a newsletter and annually celebrates Charter Day in December. Charter Day is when Governor Jon Belcher signed the Charter declaring Tewksbury to be a town, separate from Billerica in 1734. Tewksbury was a British town in 1734.

Come and celebrate the history of the Heath Brook School and the long excellence of education and history in the Heath Brook School district.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

What does the Town Counsel do for $250,000.00 yr. if collective bargaining, arbitration, grievance hearings, hearings before State Labor Relations Board or civic service, regarding employee issues, Trial counsel litigation, trials, depositions, court motions, Real Estate, Bond, and Tax Counsel, etc etc etc, are not covered? Anything? Why not give Mr. DeRensis a $5 MIL. signing bonus as well, and a statue in the town common.

Wilmington

Tewksbury, you completed a great job on Salem Street from Rte 38 to the Wilmington line. The delay was well worth waiting for. I congratulate you for the design work that resulted in the manhole covers being at the same height as the hot top surface. It is like driving on a glass road. You would never know there are 15 manhole covers.

Wilmington, I am sorry, but I can't say the same for you. Your new hot top job from the Tewksbury/Wilmington line to Cunningham Street has 13 manhole covers designed to be a good 1/2 inch below the hot top surface. This presents 3 problems - one good one, and two not so good ones. The good one is that as you drive over the manhole covers they go bump/bump & bump/bump and are sure to keep you awake. The two bad ones will eventually cause front-end alignment and tire wear problems. "Have a good day my friend."

Wilmington

Why does Appletree Lane (off of Chestnut Street) have a sign stating it's not a through street? Is it because it's a cut-through street? If so, what about Boutwell Street, Forest Street, Glen Road, Lake Street, - all cut-through streets???? Are these neighborhoods not as high class as Appletree Lane?

Country singing star meets Wilmington and Tewksbury

WILMINGTON - WKLB 102.5 recently ran a contest in which their "VIP members" were asked to submit, in one sentence, what it would mean to have the opportunity of meeting recording superstar Kenny Chesney. The winner was none other than Dorene Robarge, a 43 year resident of Wilmington.

Robarge's entry stated, "I would appreciate the opportunity to meet Kenny Chesney to express what a talented musician/artist he is, and how much of an impression he has made not only on me, but to the world of Country Music."

Robarge was notified on Wednesday, September 12th that she was one of five winners chosen to meet Chesney in the WKLB studios on Friday, September 14th. She would be allowed to bring one guest.

"A long time friend of mine - Pat Rundgren - had once mentioned how much her daughter Debbie has idolized his music," Robarge said. "I thought what a pleasure it would be to bring someone truly deserving, who would appreciate it immensely."

Robarge had never met Rundgren's daughter, Debbie Burns of Tewksbury, but was thrilled at the idea of making her dream come true.

They arrived at the WKLB studios at noon on Friday and were escorted to a private Tiki Bar/Beach Party room and then into the studio.

"We were fortunate enough to not only meet and get pictures with Kenny Chesney, but see him doing a 1.5 hour interview live on the radio with Carolyn Kruse," Robarge said.

You'll be floored by Shawsheen Tech's new gymnasium

Two 2007 grads see their work become reality

BILLERICA - Joe Nitche of Burlington and Wilmington's Jeremy Sanderson are excited that the gymnasium floor they designed is being enjoyed by Shawsheen Valley Technical High School athletes and students.

But what really excites the 2007 graduates of the Billerica school is the prospect of students 20 or 30 years from now enjoying their handiwork as well.

"The old floor was here for about 35 years," Sanderson said. "So this is definitely going to be here for a while. It feels good to know that we left our marks on the school."

Last year, Nitche and Sanderson were asked by Michael Acevedo, a visual design and communications teacher/department head and Superintendent/Director

Charles Lyons to design the floor for the new gymnasium that was being redone at Shawsheen Tech over the summer.

"I chose them based on their creative ability," Acevedo said. "They worked very well as a team."

The pair embraced the assignment and the result now can be seen on the shiny wooden floor on Cook Street.

A large purple and white Ram logo is painted in the middle of the basketball court with Shawsheen Tech printed on the baseline under each basket. The logo for the Commonwealth Athletic Conference also appears in two different places on the court.

Nitche said that once Lyons presented the two seniors with the assignment, Nitche went online to research basketball courts at colleges throughout the country.

Nitche said the project took about two months before all of the revisions and approval from school officials was complete.

"We had a final meeting with the architect," Sanderson said. "He loved it and Mr. Lyons made the decision right there and said 'This is it.'"

Nitche and Sanderson entered the refurbished gymnasium for the first time to see the new floor a few weeks ago. "It looked awesome," Nitche said with a laugh. "We've been down here every day this week."

"It looks exactly how we planned it. It's just so great to actually see it here," Sanderson said.

Nitche and Sanderson are

Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library's Book Store News

Stock up on winter reading

WILMINGTON - This and every Saturday, the Library's little used bookstore is open from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

If you missed the Friends' huge media sale on the 15th, don't despair. The store has new-to-the-shelves children's videos. Donations continue to grow the collection of CD's, DVD's and cassettes, including computer games and audio books (cassettes & CDs).

The days are getting shorter, the nights longer and colder; it's time to think about filling up your nightstand with winter reading. We have many books on fall sports and athletics: soccer, football, basketball; or comfort-food cookbooks. This month is National Hispanic Awareness month (thru Oct. 15) and the bookstore has a small selection devoted to foreign languages (Spanish, French & German at present).

Most of the books are consistently priced at 50-cent paperbacks, $2.00 hard covers, and $1.00 for trade paperbacks, with 100 percent of the proceeds turned over to the Wilmington Memorial Library.

Many thanks for your continued support of donations and purchases.

Tarr Calls for Education Funding Overhaul

BOSTON - Joining with numerous other legislators testifying before the Joint Committee on Education, Senate Assistant Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) called for a thorough study and overhaul of the state's system of funding local public schools.

"We need to take comprehensive action to address the dysfunctional elements of the Chapter 70 formula," said Tarr, referring to the formula by which the amounts of funding to be distributed to local schools are calculated. He added that "issues of inequity and inadequacy have persisted since the time the formula was adopted."

In addition to calling for the overhaul to take place before the next state budget cycle, Tarr also voiced support for S.346 and S.379, two bills that he has co-sponsored. S.346 would create a mechanism to analyze the current formula and develop a plan for changing it, while S.379 would establish a fund to address specific inequities between communities as a result of the Chapter 70 formula adopted in 1993.

Tarr expressed optimism that progress could be made this year, based on recent changes made by the legislature. "Considering income on an equal basis with property value in determining a community's ability to pay, establishing a minimum state share of 17.5% (of local school budgets), and the Special Education Circuit Breaker are all important and significant steps, but now is the time for comprehensive action to ensure equity and adequacy," said Tarr.

The hearing encompassed some 25 bills relating to education financing, and involved testimony from a number of individuals, organizations and legislators.

ulation of solid waste management activities."

Tewksbury Post Office plans Passport Day

TEWKSBURY - Are you planning to travel abroad?

Well, Tewksbury Post Office, 1751 Main St., will make it easier for you by holding a special "Passport Day" on Saturday, Sept. 22, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Postmaster Joanna M. Louf said the special hours should make it easier for parents with minor children applying for a passport because both parents must accompany children if they are under 14 years of age, and one parent must be present for children 14 to 17-years-old. "These special 'Passport Day' Saturday hours should prove to be helpful to persons with children who need passports," she said.

There are new regulations requiring a passport for all air travel to and from Canada, Mexico, Central and South America, the Caribbean, and Bermuda. These new rules took effect Jan. 23, she said.

The Post Office also takes passport photos for $15, she said, making the procedure a one-stop process.

She recommended persons apply for their passports at least two months or earlier before their departure to avoid extra costs to expedite an application.

Other requirements in applying for a passport, she said, include: Evidence of citizenship, two passport photos, and current photo identification.

Passport fees can be paid by check or cash. Passports cost a total of $97 for persons 16 years of age and over; $82 for persons under age 16, and $67 for passports being renewed.

More information can be obtained by calling Tewksbury Post Office at (978) 851-6390.

To save time, passport applications can be downloaded at www.usps.com/passport to complete your passport beforehand, Louf said.

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Jen Hinderer

Used book sale a success

Many of you may have visited the used book sale last weekend and spent a few dollars buying used hardcover and paperback books at great low prices. These monthly sales are very popular and are the chief source of revenue for our Friends of the Tewksbury Library. All of the money raised from the book sales goes to support library programs and services not covered by our regular budget. This list covers just a few of the things that we have been able to provide to our customers due to the hard work and generosity of our Friends group:

- Our annual Summer Reading Club for children. In 2007 the Friends spent $2000 on the summer reading program: over 1000 Tewksbury children were enrolled in the club and enjoyed the programs, activities and incentives all paid for with funding from the Friends.
- Museum passes: our free and discount admission passes are also paid for by funding from our Friends' group. We offer the use of passes to 6 different museums: in the last year they have been used by hundreds of Tewksbury families going to the zoo, the Museum of Science or the Children's Museum. The Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library spends over $2000 annually on those passes.

- Programs for adults and teens: the Friends have also generously supported programs for adults in the past several years, including author visits and our monthly chess club. In 2007 they hosted a lovely afternoon tea with live music, and sponsored several workshops on pastels, scrap booking and card making. Stay tuned for more exciting programs this fall and winter!

Our Friends work tirelessly to support our mission, but they need more members and volunteers to help them implement some of their great ideas. If you love the library and would like to help us please consider joining the Friends and volunteering just a few hours of your time.

Want more information? Contact the library director, Jen Hinderer at 978-640-4490 and keep an eye out for the newsletter later this fall.

As soon as the Wilmington Memorial Library was notified in mid-July that it was selected to be one of the three libraries in the nation for "the Idearc Media American Library Association (ALA) Reading Renovation Volunteer Project", library staff hit the ground running to meet the November deadline for completion of the project. The Idearc Media/ALA funds will be used to implement the first phase of the Children's Room makeover with the focus on the preschool area. The past few weeks have been dedicated to measuring and remeasuring this space in order to determine where shelving, book bins, displays, seating, and interactive play can be placed. Staff visited children's rooms in area libraries, had multiple meetings with vendors, and met with professional designers and with representatives from Idearc Media and the American Library Association. The next few weeks will be dedicated to opening up space and accommodate a custom made puppet theater and other new furniture in the redesigned preschool area. Library staff will also be working with Idearc Media graphic artists who will be designing murals for the Children's Room. Volunteers from the Idearc Media office in Middleton, Massachusetts are also scheduled to paint the Children's Room in mid November. When shelving arrives, books will be moved to the conference room, old shelving removed, new shelving installed and books reshelved. Feedback about improvements in the Children's Room has been primarily positive. However, we apologize for any inconvenience or disruption the makeover may cause. We especially appreciate the understanding and patience of parents regarding the cancellation of the fall story time session that has allowed Children's Department staff to focus on the makeover and meet the November deadline set by Idearc Media/ALA. Dates for holiday story time session and celebration of the makeover of the preschool area will be announced as soon as there is confirmation of delivery/installation dates for the new furniture.

Parking Lot Improvement and Expansion

The Department of Public Works has begun working on the expansion and improvement of the library parking lot. The first phase involves the creation of a parking area behind 183 Middlesex Avenue that will connect to the library's parking lot. The second phase will involve work in the Wildwood Street parking lot followed by the repaving of the parking lot directly behind the library. Please note any signs or orange cones that mark parking areas that are closed during construction work.

Upcoming Programs Digital Camera Workshop

The Digital Camera workshop that was cancelled in May has been rescheduled for Tuesday, October 30, 6:30 p.m. Lori Shactman, Professional Photographer, will teach the audience how to take great pictures with a digital camera.

Learn about all those little buttons and what they will do for your photographs. The presentation will include how to make photographs into paintings, note cards, and other great personalized items and gifts. Call 978-694-2099 to register. Sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

The Olivere Brothers

John and Dan Olivere, local musicians, will play a variety of styles ranging from folk to pop to calypso at the library on Tuesday, September 25 at 7 p.m. Come and be drawn back to the days when the lyrics of a song actually told a story.

Teen and Tween Advisory Boards

Hate the chairs? Think the events are boring? Change it all! Join our new Teen and Tween Advisory Boards to give input on everything from what we buy to what we do, and what we look like while we do it. The Teen Zone is your space, so make sure your opinions are heard! The first meeting will be held on Thursday, September 27, from 3-4 p.m. Teens in grades 6-12 are encouraged to attend.

Library Closed 9 am to Noon September 21

The library will be closed from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Friday, September 21 for staff training. The library will be open from noon to 5 p.m. that day. Please note that the library's book and media returns are open 24/7 for returning library material. Patrons may also go to the library's website www.wilmli.org to reserve and renew library materials and reserve museum passes. Take advantage of these conveniences whether the library is closed or open.

Development to zero balance by July 31, 2003," the DA's press advisory states.

In addition to building homes, DeGennaro and Connors were also engaged in home improvement contracting as House Watch of New England. Donna Wayman, of Wayman and Associates, contracted with House Watch of New England for a Wilmington project.

"It is alleged that they either outright abandoned or built projects without specification as contracted by the owners," the DA's press advisory states.

By July 18, 2006, DeGennaro's and Connor's licenses were suspended by the licensing board, but the DA's Office alleges that their projects continued through the late summer and into the fall of 2006.

Several subcontractors allegedly went unpaid by House Watch of New England for work done, including floors, plumbing, and heating.

These charges are allegations, and the defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty.

to his firm of more than $100,000. The Board then voted to accept a contract that included a retainer for day-to-day legal services and accommodated hourly billing for specialized legal services.

Since that time, funds expended on legal services have far exceeded $200,000 for each year.

Three of the members of the Board of Selectmen have changed since 2003, and all of the current board members are in favor of returning to a fixed fee arrangement. The Board was unanimous at its most recent meeting of September 10th, to accept Selectman Raymond Lepore's proposal of a fixed fee contract in the amount of $250,000 for legal services in Fiscal Year 2008.

According to Lepore, the town spent roughly $261,000 on legal services in FY07.

"2007 was his biggest year, and that included a lot of work on Olin and New England Transrail that shouldn't come up again in the upcoming year," Lepore said at the September 10th meeting. "But even if it does, he'll have the option to come back (and renegotiate)."

DeRensis was not present at the September 10th meeting. Town Manager Michael Caira was instructed by the Board to advise DeRensis of the proposal.

"I don't believe there is any substantive disagreement, but there are some details to finalize," Newhouse said.

more personal level about a foreign culture."

Soderquist shared her thoughts and experiences with the Crier through a series of four e-mail messages that she managed to send home on weekends when she took a 2-hour trip by taxi to the nearest town. The excerpts below have been chosen to illustrate her experiences:

June 21, 2007

While I do love the kids at my school, the week in Talismanus has been a major adjustment. It's dirt roads and lots of dust as I'm in the desert (which is also ironically-cattle country). I think that there are more cattle, goats, and sheep than there are people!

...there were definite culture shock moments that I experienced in the school itself. On my first day, there were 4 teachers absent, and the staff is only 7 large. There are no substitutes, so the "learners" are responsible for sitting quietly and doing their studies. While observing a class, I witnessed more shocking moments: the teacher telling the learner to "open your f---ing book man", pulling on the child's ear, throwing a book at a child, and pinching another one.

What's really sad is that there have been these generous donations of DSTV, TV's, and VCR's, but there are no classroom sets of books! I've taken on teaching 4 English classes, and I am enjoying it very much!

The kids and the people in the village are very interested in the only white person for hundreds of miles. In fact, a 4 yr. old boy cried with utter fear when he saw me the other day—he had never seen a white person before. I do feel very safe and welcomed by everyone in school and in the community.

July 6th

Despite the seclusion, I can say that I am developing a growing affinity for my little village of Talismanus. I've made a friend with one of the teachers who has made it his mission to see that I am enjoying myself, which is great. He has shared some incredible stories of his culture, and it's all so different. People have babies here like they are candy, and marriage doesn't necessarily need to be part of the deal. In fact, it rarely is....

Enjoy your summer and the warmth! It is really, really cold here...nothing near our winters, but it's not summer which my body is definitely upset about.

July 19, 2007

Hello all! I am happy to say that this report is much more positive and less filled with creepy crawlers. The time has flown by, but I feel like I have accomplished a lot and made really special connections with many of the kids. My mom sent over a box of old books that Litah (9 year old niece) no longer reads, so I have been using those to work with the grade 8 learners. They are only reading level 1 or 2, but they are books that they kids can actually understand and read, which is the point. You would be amazed at how excited these 15 year olds are over Franklin and Amelia Bedelia stories.

We read together every day, and some of them are becoming courageous enough to read aloud in English. So great. We also have spelling bees every week, and many of them are motivated to win because they want the prizes (candy or chips) for 1st, 2nd, or 3rd place. Two of the grade 8 girls came to my room at 6:30 this morning to wish me a happy birthday, which was so special. They are really, really sweet, and so much "younger" than the average American teenager.

Unfortunately, that innocence doesn't last long, and by the time they reach grade 10, they are a bit less innocent, which is frightening when you consider the percentage of the population infected with AIDS (20%). That statistic is based on those who are brazen enough to actually be tested, and with the stigma attached to the disease; it is rare that people are so pro-active.

We have spent the last two weeks doing activities and having very important discussions about HIV/AIDS, and there is a tremendous fear of being ostracized by family/friends/community if one is to test positive. As a result, people just don't get tested, but this doesn't stop them from doing things that put them at risk.

Because of the dangers of the disease, the teachers are permitted to have really frank discussions with the learners, and it has been an eye-opening two weeks worth of talking. At any rate, after having many of them originally tell me that they would rather die/kill themselves than find out that they were HIV+, I have managed to convince many of them to go to the clinic and be tested. We have set up a schedule and will go in groups next week. I'm really thrilled and see this as an enormous stride.

In contrast to the success I have had with the learners, I was, unfortunately, feeling somewhat defeated by the teachers. Their approach to education is beyond arcane for an American educator, and there is not much 'teaching' that actually goes on. Ordinarily, the teacher may or may not write some notes on the board at the beginning of the day so that s/he can enjoy his/her tea while the students sit in class and copy from the information on the board. A few of them pop in and out of the classroom to reprimand those who are not doing their work, but that's about all that goes on.

Needless to say, the idea of using educational TV programs to enhance their lesson plans is a concept that they see as futile and unnecessary as it would require great effort and preparation on their parts... I can say with confidence that I believe 1 of the 7 teachers will use the equipment after I leave. I am told that this is progress, so I am trying to feel good about it....

My friend, Katuamba, took me to his cattle post last weekend where I saw him and others dehorn a calf and brand another. Quite an experience!

August 1st

I am back in Windhoek again having left my village for good... I'm having very mixed feelings about leaving as there are about 10 kids who have nestled their ways into my heart making it a real challenge to leave them. However, I was moved to tears of disappointment and frustration this weekend because so many of the girls who have never said as much as hello to me piled into my room demanding that "Miss, you must give me something." They actually had the audacity to rifle through my things! It was very difficult for me not to show my heartache.

I'm really angry at Oprah for setting such an unrealistic expectation of what "kids in Africa" want from Americans who are trying to help. At any rate, I am trying to focus on the positives and hope that there will be some continued good that comes from my time here. (End of e-mail journal entries)

Soderquist describes her conflicted feelings about her experiences with the educational system in Namibia: "I did come away with a feeling of gratitude for this amazing opportunity; however, there was equally as strong a feeling of frustration. I hesitate to even mention my disappointments as I fear it will only perpetuate people's deeply entrenched stereotypes about African culture, but I certainly did feel saddened for the realities of life in my village. I was sad to see that so many of the young girls are completely unaware of the growing opportunities that are available to them only four-and-a-half hours away in Windhoek."

While disappointed that a majority of the teachers are not likely to embrace the equipment, Soderquist is grateful that the one teacher who is likely to embrace the equipment is the principal of the school.

"My hope is that his enthusiasm for this donation and its benefits will spread to the remaining teachers of the seven-member staff so that the kids can see that education and learning can be fun, exciting, and useful," Soderquist said. "Change and progress are slow moving, and I can only cross my fingers and hope that my efforts made an impact and will be an impetus for change in the school where I worked."

allege that these defendants then took that money and used it as their own personal bank accounts," District Attorney Leone said. "We will continue to pursue this case on behalf of these victims and hold the contractors accountable for their alleged failure to live up to their fundamental legal obligations." According to allegations, from

November 7, 2001 and August 27, 2002, DeGennaro and Connors were given 103,350 to be held in escrow for the building of two new homes by three victims. Instead of holding that money in escrow, the DA charges, it was spent out of the checking accounts by DeGennaro and Connors to negative and zero balance. Additionally, the DA asserts that DeGennaro did not have permission from the town to build the homes at the time, and was never able to obtain permission - thus, he never built the homes that he was contracted to build and the money was never refunded to the victims.

In one case, according to a statement from the DA's Office, DeGennaro - serving as President of Sun Castle Realty - received a 5,000 deposit on November 7, 2001 from a couple to build a house in Wilmington. On December 14th of that same year, an additional $43,000 was given to DeGennaro upon the signing of a contract. The contract stipulated, and the couple was informed, that the money would be held in an interest-bearing escrow account.

Instead, according to the DA's Office, the funds were deposited into a business checking account (non interest-bearing), and by March 5, 2002, the account was spent down to negative $1,557.57.

"Further investigation revealed that the money was taken out of that account via a series of checks written to Sun Castle Realty, PCD Properties (also affiliated with DeGennaro), Presidential Development (also affiliated with DeGennaro), cash, and themselves. The checks were signed by both DeGennaro and Connors," stated a press advisory from the DA's office.

DeGennaro, this time serving as Manager of Hartman Development, allegedly ran a nearly identical scam in August of 2001. The DA alleges that, from a second victim, DeGennaro received a $5,000 check, made out to Hartman Development as a deposit to build a home in Wilmington. DeGennaro then directed that second victim to make out a check in the amount of $41,900 to Sun Castle Realty to be held in escrow. An additional check in the amount of $7,950, for "extras" to the home, was made out to Hartman Development. Those checks, the DA alleges, were deposited into a business checking account in the name of DeGennaro. By October 15, 2002, the Sun Castle account was spent down to negative $1,414.69.

"After receiving the two checks for $5000 and $7950, that money was spent down by Hartman yellow and white pages directories, has a local office in Middleton. As part of its mission, the company is dedicated to creating communities of readers where their employees and customers live and work. The grant indicated that the funds should go toward renovating a children or teen room. Specifically, the funds will be used to update the preschool area in the children's room. The grant was originally awarded in the amount of $20K but Idearc has pledged additional funds bringing the total to $23,500 for the project.

"Renovating the preschool area is step one in the children's room makeover process," explained Stewart. "It's a heavily used area of the room. It's overcrowded, outdated and needs to have a new space. We want it to be a place where parents and children can share an enjoyable experience with each other," said Stewart.

Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald agreed. "We want to make it more appealing for the kids. The renovations will make it more modern and cheerful. Over the years, we've slowly been growing in size and adding shelves. Due to budget, we've always been purchasing the cheapest items we could buy. That's resulted in a lot of mismatched furniture and shelving. This grant will give us the opportunity to offer a more cohesive look for the entire room. Nature is the overall theme that we're striving for."

"We'll have a beautiful puppet theatre in the shape of an apple tree to tie in to Wilmington's heritage with the Baldwin Apple," continued MacDonald. "We'll also be renovating the picture book area and moving a display shelf that's currently blocking a window to allow for more light. All of this, plus the beautiful wood shelving, will make it all flow together nicely."

Another important update includes offering an online catalog in the picture book area. Presently, the online catalog is located in the teen area which requires children to leave their designated area to search for items. When the makeover is completed, there will be a separate online catalog in the teen zone, the children's room and the picture book area.

The grant money was an unexpected gift, but still more funding is needed to make needed upgrades. The Friends of the Library have tirelessly been supporting fundraising efforts to build upon improvements.

"Specifically with the defeat of the new library proposal, we realize that the library is going to be in this building for the foreseeable future," said Robert Hayes, President of Friends of the Library. "We want to help make the best of this situation. The goal is to help modernize and update the library."

Hayes continued, "Getting this grant without even applying for it was like hitting the lottery without even buying a ticket. We were ecstatic to hear about it. The Library hadn't planned on this and the renovations we were envisioning for the children's room was going to have to wait a year. Now that we have the grant, we can begin the project a year ahead of time."

The renovation will truly be a team effort as Idearc encourages their own employees to participate in the renovations. In addition to offering employees to paint, Idearc is also arranging for two of their graphic artists to design murals for the new space.

Library employees will also be on hand to assist with the reorganization of materials, and the town's Public Buildings Department will be assisting by patching walls, replacing tiles of carpet and assisting with other tasks as needed. The project is expected to be completed before Thanksgiving.

One of the murals will be a pond scene used to decorate the metal doors of a heating unit. The Friends of the Library have donated funds for a laminate machine to create animals such as frogs and ducks for the mural. The laminated animals will be attached to magnets so the children can use the unit as a creative play space.

The Friends have also provided funds through bookstore revenues, donations and membership dues for items such as new chairs and tables, and reupholstering a couch. In keeping with the theme, the wooden chairs will have animal shaped cutouts on the back.

The Friends previously donated money to update the staff room and update the library's landscaping.

"Last year we donated funds to renovate the downstairs areas," recalled Hayes. "Through our first annual appeal, we raised $15,000 for the 24/7 book and media return units which have been very popular. We also bought two new chairs and reupholstered chairs in the adult reading room."

"This year our annual appeal takes place in mid-November and we'll be sending a mailing out to residents asking for their support," said Hayes. "We're hoping that we raise at least $15,000 again this year to help with the second phase of the children's room makeover. Our phase-two goal is to replace the large circulation desk, add computer workstations as well as new tables, chairs and bookshelves."

MacDonald, who oversees the children's room, couldn't be more pleased. She has been with the library since before it opened its doors in the current location over 37 years ago. Prior to that, MacDonald worked at the old library space, which now serves as the town's Fourth of July Building.

"I remember when we first opened in our new location back in 1968 or 1969. I walked into the library and it looked like the Taj Mahal. It was so much bigger and more modern than the old building," said MacDonald. "But, over time, we've outgrown the area. We've used every bit of space, including old storage space, to display our collections. Now, with the renovations, we'll finally be able to get things up off the floor and make more space for seating."

"Because of the scope of the renovations, we've had to cancel some of our programs such as story time, but I really think people will find that it's been worth it in the end," explained MacDonald. "We are focusing our efforts on this to make it a beautiful space for everyone to enjoy. We'll be back in full force in November."

Jamie Campbell in the ring Friday night

The ultimate fighter

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Through eight years of playing high school and collegiate football, Wilmington native Jamie Campbell surely delivered his share of hard hits and tackles. This Friday he's hoping to continue that trend as he'll be battling Steve Sneigel as part of the World Championship Fighting night which will be held at the Shriner's Auditorium.

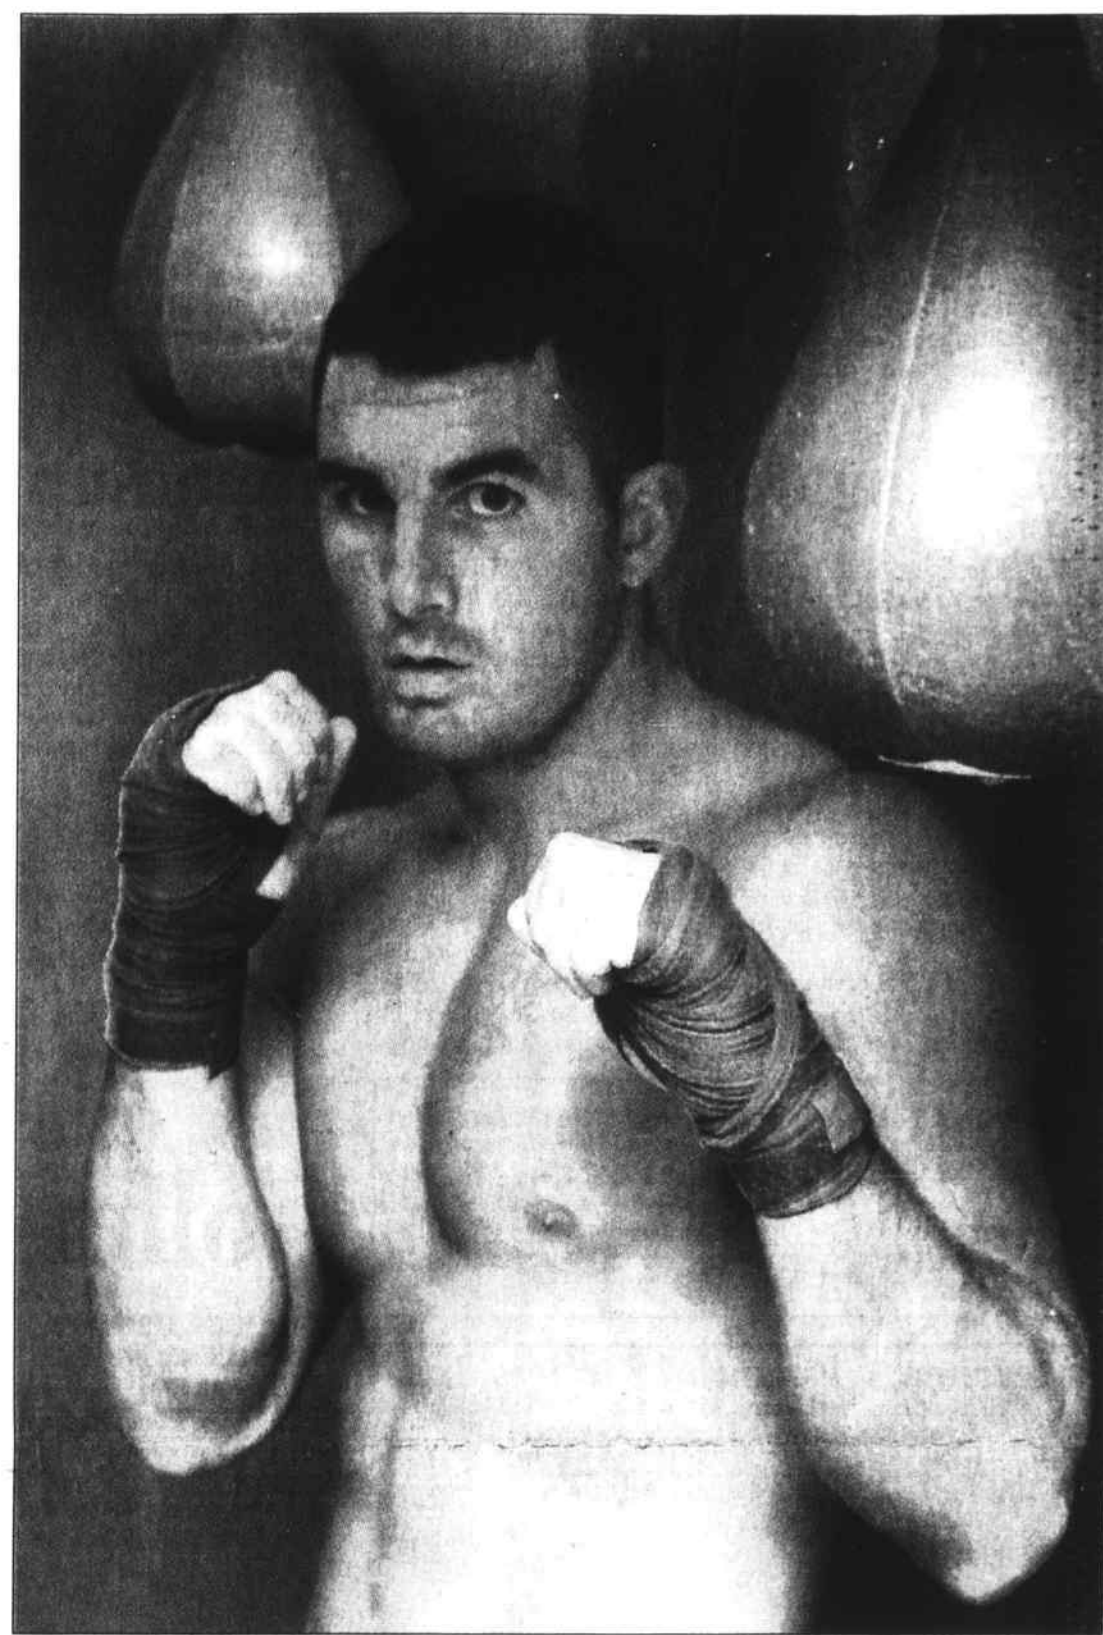

The WCF is a subdivision (or minor league if you will) of the very popular Ultimate Fighting Championship which is seen on various Sports Television stations. For those who are not familiar with the sport, it's two people in a ring going 1-on-1 with each other. Everything is legal whether it's kicking, punching, tackling and submission, except there's not kicking or elbowing to the head. This will be Campbell's third fight as he is 2-0 defeating Mike Massey with a knockout 1:40 into the bout back on October 28th and then defeating Chuck O'Neill via decision back on April 20th.

On Friday night, he'll be the 10th scheduled fight out of 12 or possible 13 bouts, and most likely will be on center stage around 10:00 pm. He said he's looking forward to the challenge.

"I like the competition," he said. "I like competing. I like getting out there. But it's different than football because there's no one to blame but yourself. You're out there all by yourself and the best man wins."

Several years ago, Campbell was working out at the RMA Fitness Center in North Wilmington and became work out partners with Chuck Taylor, a Wilmington Firefighter. From there the two have not only worked out together, but Taylor has helped Campbell train for the three bouts, not to mention forming a great friendship.

"Chuck has been huge, just huge and such a big help," said Campbell. "He's been there for me for everything and not just training. Whether I'm nervous before a fight and I tell him to

CAMPBELL PG SP11W

CIMAGLIA: So Mike, word on the street is that you have abandoned all faith in our beloved Red Sox. I, on the other hand, am keeping a cool head. The BoSox are finishing out their season against teams they have a combined record of 14-9 against, including three games against the Devil Rays, who the Sox have beat ten times this season. And on top of that, the Sox close out their season against Oakland and Minnesota, two teams that are both 15 games out of the lead in their division.

And, they finish the year on a six game homestand. Boston is still 3.5 games up as of Tuesday, and the team is regaining some injured players. Kevin Youkilis will be back shortly. Doug Mirabelli will be back soon. Manny Ramirez has taken a nice month long vacation and will be geared up for the playoffs and that's not a bad late season acquisition. You know, the 2004 World Series MVP.

IPPOLITO: Well, I didn't realize that Doug Mirabelli and his .219 average was on his way back. Now I feel much better! This Red Sox team seems to be falling apart as the season comes to an end. If they survive and manage to make the playoffs, (which they should, as the wild card) they will immediately get bounced out of the playoffs by Anaheim.

They can't hit in the clutch. They can't hit good pitching, period. Literally as I am writing this to you, J.D. Drew just struck out with the bases loaded against Toronto. Big surprise.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, this team is built for October. David Ortiz will be clutch when the time comes. The Sox have done well against Anaheim in the past. And how can you hold it against a team when they have a 14-game lead and then the time comes where they need to play intense ball? Yeah they lost the lead but once the juices start flowing they will play better. Yes, this Toronto game is disgusting right now, thank you Eric Gagne, but the Sox are a veteran team that has enough leadership to hold on to the division lead.

IPPOLITO: I would really like to believe that this team is built for October, but the fact of the matter is they are not even built for September. Eric Gagne is a human gasoline can, just put him in and watch the other team's offense explode. Okajima is worn down and is no longer effective and Wakefield is on a cold stretch that could last until next May.

As for Big Papi, I love the guy for what he has done in the past, but the fact remains that other than a wind blown fly ball that the Tampa left fielder misplayed into a home run last week, he has not had a big hit all season.

The lead is 2 1/2 as we write this and by the time readers pick up the paper on Thursday morning it will be a 1/2 game. They are done.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, where is your "Cowboy Up" spirit? You're overlooking the fact that Schilling seems to be heating up, Beckett should win the Cy Young and Dice-K is still going strong. That is three good starters. Papelbon is still healthy in the bullpen. Pedroia is still fighting. Jacoby Ellsbury has provided a spark.

This team has hit a slump at a poor time, but thanks to a three game series against the Devil Rays, they will get back on the right track and will fend off the Yankees. And the Yankees can only ride their luck for so long. Jeter cannot always come up with the clutch hit. Clemens and Pettitte have seen better years. Posada is hurting. A-Rod has never proven himself in the playoffs. I'm always keeping the faith, Mike.

IPPOLITO: Louie, I really wish I had your faith. I'll chalk it up to youthful enthusiasm. Maybe I have just seen this before (ugh, 1978!) so I am more cynical, but I just cannot see them doing anything if they get in. I am a huge Ellsbury fan, but the fact is he has been one of the few bright spots as of late. Schilling is pitching better, but he can't get a win because the offense is terrible. Dice-K is guaranteed one horrible inning per start and that inning gets worse every time out.

And even though I hate Derek Jeter more than anybody on the planet, I can't help but admire the fact that he ALWAYS comes through when it matters most for his team. They have taken five of the last six from the Sox and if the Sox somehow survive the first round they will have to face the Bronx Bombers. I'll bet the Yanks are licking their chops.

Louie, I sincerely hope you are right that the Red Sox will advance deep in the playoffs and I am wrong, but it sure doesn't feel that way.

Potcner's goals reach another level

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Stephen Potcner left Wilmington High two years ago as one of the school's greatest soccer players in recent memory. Now at UMass Lowell, he is starting to make an impact at the next level as well.

The freshman forward, who redshirted his first year, scored the first two goals of his college career on September 1st in a 7-0 victory over Saint Rose. Head coach Ed Priestly said that it wasn't a shock for him that Potcner got off to a strong start to the season.

"I know that Stephen is a good soccer player, so I'm not at all surprised that he has started well," he said.

Potcner graduated from Wilmington High with the school's single-season record in goals, with 28. He was an all-conference and all-state player, and he scored a goal in the Eastern Mass All-Star game. However, he didn't play for the Riverhawks in his first year at the school.

"My grades weren't that high in high school," Potcner said. "I needed a year to adapt to the college life. I was able to keep another year of eligibility."

Even though Potcner didn't

Four scorers lead the way

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After starting out with back-to-back losses against two of the better teams in the Cape Ann League, the very young Wilmington High girls soccer team had four different goal scorers in the team's 4-2 victory over Georgetown held Monday afternoon at the Shawsheen Elementary School.

Lisa Rooker, Colleen Kennedy, Kaitlyn Sousa and Julie Braid all found the back of the net, while, the combination of Leah Potner and Jackie Zaremba made a combined 10 saves to help the Wildcats earn their first win of the young season.

"There's still some things we need to work on but (Monday's game) was not perfect but it was good to see that we had four different kids score," said head coach Sue Hendee. "That was a concern of mine heading into the season, trying to get balanced scoring. We had two girls score their first varsity goal which was nice, and I think seeing four girls score is a nice way to break (in that balanced scoring)."

Wilmington High senior Katie Cole battles for a loose ball during the girls soccer team's opening game loss to Masconomet. (JoeBrownphotos.com)

With almost an entirely new defensive line-up, Hendee said even though the team has given up seven goals in three games, she likes what she's been seeing from the back.

"I'm surprised how well the young defense has come together," said Hendee. "There's still some things to work on, but none of them were starters last year and they are all doing pretty well."

Last Wednesday, Wilmington was defeated by North Andover, 2-1. Charlotte Jensen scored the lone goal as she was set up by Katie Cole.

"That was certainly a step up from our first game (of the season against Masconomet)," said Hendee. "It seemed like the kids played with a lot more confidence. It was a much prettier game (than Masco)."

Wilmington is now 1-2 on the season and were scheduled to face a very good Lynnfield team on Wednesday as this paper was being printed. The Wildcats return home on Friday afternoon against Ipswich at the Shawsheen Field, before taking on Newburyport on Tuesday night at the high school beginning at 6:00 pm.

league," said Bradley. "North Andover had five of the first six finishers and eight of the first ten."

Sophomore Tom Valente was the Wildcats (0-3) top performer coming in fourth overall at 16:12 for the 2.85 mile course.

"Tom is very good and he did a lot of work in the summer and it shows," said Bradley.

Andrew Marra finished seventh overall at 17:05, followed by Eddie Silva, Zack Sear and Jim DiNuccio, who were ten seconds within one another.

Boys soccer team takes tough opener

By JAMIE POTE

HAVERHILL - Through the first 17 minutes, there were four goals scored. Through the final 63 minutes, there was one goal scored and that was the most important one. Just eight minutes into the second half, Carlton Lentini took a bouncing pass from Mike Condell and from 16 yards out he blasted a hard shot to the top right corner, to give the Wilmington High boys soccer team a 3-2, non-league season opening victory over a very good Haverhill team last Thursday afternoon.

"I was told that Haverhill was going to be really good and they would end up winning the (Merrimack Valley Conference)," said Wildcat head coach Steve Scanlon. "And they are good - really good. I was impressed with them. They had skill all over the field and they were big."

Haverhill opened the game scoring off a corner kick just two minutes into the game ... certainly not the way any of the players or coaches wanted the season to start. But four minutes later, Wilmington came back to tie the game as Lentini scored his first goal of the game as he was set up by Jason Pereira.

Four minutes after that Wilmington took the short 2-1 lead as Lentini fed Condell in on a breakaway and he found the back of the net. That lead didn't stay long as Haverhill's Peter Maranto tied the game up at two.

"The first 17 minutes of the game was kind of nutty," said Scanlon. "But things settled down and we played much tighter defensively, especially in the second half. We made some adjustments on some things that were going on early in the game that we didn't like. (Haverhill) had one striker who was involved a lot in every play. Whenever he got the ball, he had his back to the net and he was able to turn and have all kinds of room to do things. Once we took that away, we settled down nicely and they couldn't do much (offensively) after that."

With the scored tied at 2-2, Lentini scored the game winning goal helping the 'Cats take the 3-2 game.

"From the 60th minute on, I thought we really took it to them," said Scanlon. "We had four or five chances to score and we had chances to really put them away. But it was a hot afternoon and I thought we were in great shape. They got pretty tired towards the end but we kept going. This was their fourth game of the season, and our first. We had ten days (before a game) and I thought once we settled down, we played pretty well."

Goalkeeper Vinny Papageorgiou made nine saves to record the win. Scanlon also pointed out that defenders, J.J. Polcari, sweeper, and Nick Robarge, an outside back, played very well especially with the team being without Nick Farnsworth and Gott Saenchandi, who have been out of the line-up. Midfielder Matt Figueiredo also played a very strong game both offensively and defensively.

Wilmington opened its home season with a contest Wednesday night against the reigning Division 3 state finalist of Lynnfield, who defeated Wilmington 1-0 in two different games last year.

"They still have the kid Michael Kennedy, who was the league's Player of the Year last year," said Scanlon. "The kid can play and he can score. He scored both goals in our two games last year. Plus I remember in the tournament last year he scored the team's first nine goals."

After that Wilmington is back on the road with trips to Ipswich on Friday afternoon and Newburyport on Tuesday night.

Girls team runs away with first win of season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Once again, it's always about "the pack".

Although North Andover had the meet's top two finishers, including one of the state's best in Kristen Kasper, the Wilmington High girls cross country team pulled out a terrific win over the Scarlet Knights last Wednesday, coming away with the three-point margin at 26-29. The difference came when Natalie Russo (18:54), Ali Lyman, Lisa Hitchins and Nikki Sirignano finished third through sixth.

"We knew it would be tough to beat them this year with (Kasper) back," said Bradley. "(If we were to beat them) we knew we needed to have a much tighter pack. We did expect them to have the top two finishers though. (We got the next four) and they finished within 16 seconds of each other which is terrific."

North Andover was able to squeeze one runner in next at seventh overall, but Kerri Spry finished eighth overall which ultimately gave Wilmington (1-2) the victory. Moreover, several other girls came on very strong in support including Michelle Filippi, Kristi Adley, Ivy Co and Lori Fletcher, who finished 11 through 14, within 55 seconds of one another which is another terrific sign of great things to come.

"Kristi is new to cross country and is coming along and Lori is battling a knee problem and hopefully will get over it," said Bradley.

Turning to the boys, their challenge was too tough as North Andover came away with a 17-44 victory.

"North Andover will contend for the best team in the

Wildcats continue to run wild

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

NEWBURYPORT – After his running backs accounted for 299 yards on the ground leading the Wildcats to a 27-17 victory, Wilmington High Football coach Bob Almeida was very quick to point two glaring flaws after his team defeated Newburyport on the road Friday night to improve to 2-0. The first is the team's offensive passing game which struggled, and the second is the team's pass defense which gave up 117 yards in the air, which allowed the Clippers to hang around in the game until the final buzzer.

Senior Ernie Mello scored all four of the team's touchdowns, while he rushed for 242 yards on the ground, giving up 377 yards and 7 touchdowns in two games. Corey Groves added 41 rushing yards and Steven Stewart grabbed 18. But on the flip side of that, the passing game only managed 35 yards on three passes - a 9-yard shuffle pass to Mello, and two receptions to Mike Manganelli, one on a terrific quick slant leading to a huge first down at the time. But that one big play didn't happen enough.

"We try to be a balanced (offensive) team," said Almeida. "We want to be balanced, we tried to be balanced but we just weren't successful in our passing game tonight. We obviously were one dimensional tonight. But we were tremendous running the ball off tackle, we had the inside trap going with (fullback) Corey (Groves), we were pretty good on the toss (sweep) and we ran two counters that were big hitters, too. And then at the end of the game Steve Stewart did a nice job on the option. He ran the ball very well and we really couldn't have done any better than it was."

"The offensive line was great, Ernie was phenomenal, we were blocking down field and the receivers were blocking down field. I was surprised that we were able to do that but I also thought we would be more successful in our passing game."

On the other end of that, Wilmington's secondary struggled for most of the night as they watched Clipper quarterback Joe Clancy complete 12-of-23 passes for 164 yards which included two touchdown passes and all but two of the 12 completions for at least 12 yards.

"(The pass defense) was atrocious," said Almeida. "We didn't do anything well in the passing game. We didn't defend the pass well at all. We got beat up top. We got beat underneath and we got beat on the screen game. They picked on us in every aspect and we were just bad, bad, bad in the pass defense tonight. We are capable of playing a lot better than that."

But some of those problems came to the fine play of Clancy, who as a junior signal caller, threw a very nice ball.

"I give a lot of credit to Newburyport," said Almeida. "Their quarterback was phenomenal, he had good receivers and his tight end was really, really good. And they had a real good plan. I thought (head coach) Ed (Guaciano) and his staff had a really good game plan against us."

Wilmington scored on its opening drive thanks to the Ernie Mello show. He took the ball six times and gained 67 yards including a 3-yard touchdown run giving the 'Cats a 7-0 lead after the PAT kick just 3:07 into the contest.

Later on in the first quarter, Newburyport strung together a successful drive of its own. Starting from the Wilmington 43, the Clippers moved the ball to the 16 before Kyle LeBlanc nailed a 33 yard field goal putting Newburyport on the board at 7-3. But Mello answered right back rushing the ball five straight times - coming after his 29 yard kick-off return - for a combined 60 yards including a gorgeous down field cut for 38 yards which set up his 2-yard scamper making it 13-3 as the extra point was good.

Again Newburyport came right back. This time Newburyport put together an 9-play, 80-yard drive with all but one play coming in the air. He connected on a big screen pass to LeBlanc, who went for 30 yards before being upended by Mello and taken out of the game with an ankle injury. That moved the ball to the 'Cats 7, and Clancy then found Ashlyn Calcagni for the touchdown strike making it a 14-10 score at halftime.

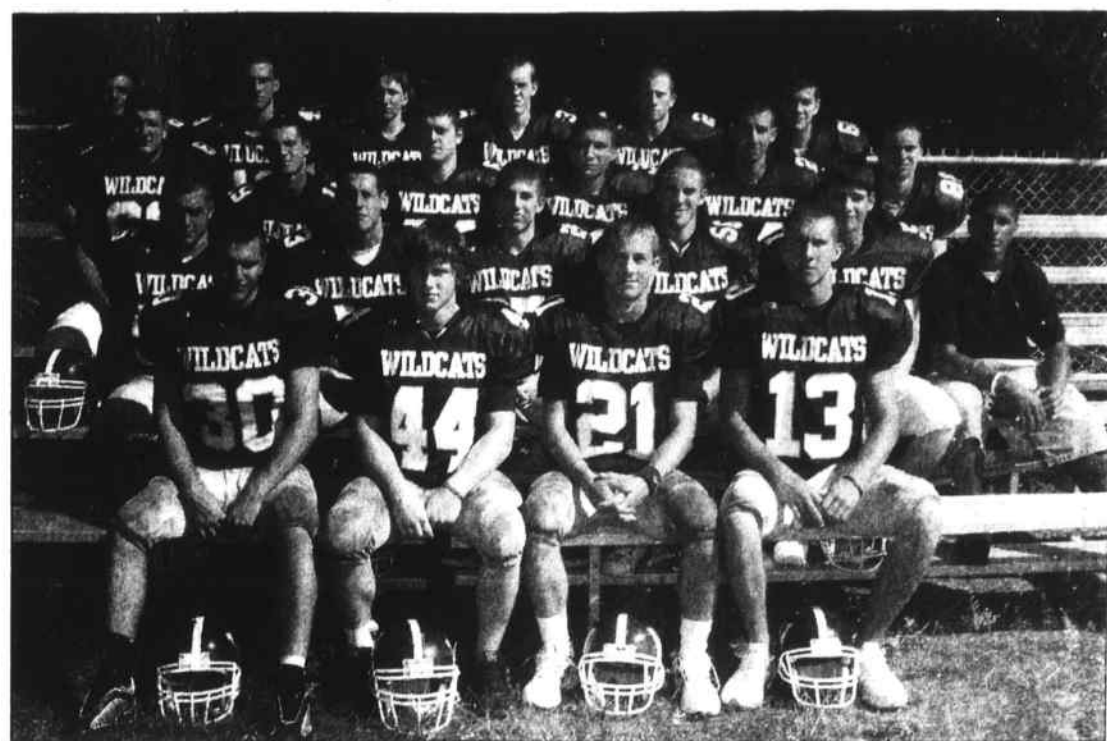

Corey Groves came up with a huge defensive interception on Newburyport's opening drive of the third quarter. Wilmington took over on its own 39, and 11 plays later, Mello darted in from the 2 yard line again, this time giving the 'Cats a 21-10 lead with 28 seconds to go in the third frame.

Both teams exchanged touchdowns in the fourth as Clancy connected with Christopher Barry on a 21 yard pass making it 21-17, before Mello put the icing on his terrific performance and the back-and-forth battle with a 5-yard TD run, coming one play after gaining 59 yards.

Despite the strong play of Mello and the offensive line, Almeida didn't expect a game like this one against a Cape Ann League small school opponent.

"We expected a tough game. We expected them to be very physical with us like they always are," he said. "But they outskilled us tonight."

Wilmington will take its 2-0 record back home where it will host Lawrence this Friday night at Alumni Field beginning at 7:00 pm.

Mello's line: Two games, 7 TDs and 337 yards

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

NEWBURYPORT – Before the season started, Wilmington High senior captain Ernie Mello spoke about his liking for defense more than his liking for offense. On Friday night, you would have thought Mello was a four-year starting running back after rushing for 242 yards and scoring all four of the team's touchdowns in the Wildcats 27-17 victory on the road at the Newburyport Stadium.

In addition to his 242 yards of offense and four scores, Mello - in his first year as a full-time running back - also had a nice kick-off return for 29 yards which followed with five straight running plays with the fifth good for Wilmington's second score. That drive he accumulated all of Wilmington's 94 yards. In the opening series, he accumulated 67 of the team's 77 yards.

He ended the first half with 135 yards and added 107 in the second half to become just the third player, joining Eric Banda and Rich Barry to go over 200 rushing yards in one game since Bob Almeida has taken the reigns back in 1996.

Mello now has rushed for 377 yards and scored seven touchdowns in just two games.

"(The offensive line's creating holes) but Ernie is on a little role right now," said WHS Football coach Bob Almeida. "The offensive line was tremendous and I take nothing away from them and they were great again tonight. But I thought Ernie was just incredible. He was making downfield cuts. Tonight he was as good as any back we've ever had here. He was just phenomenal tonight."

Besides motoring around the defenders and hitting every huge hole the offensive line gave him, Mello also had a pretty good game defensively making roughly 15 tackles from his strong safety spot. He still claims, despite dominating offensively, that defense is No. 1 on the chalkboard.

"Yeah I am. I don't know. It's just the way things worked out tonight," he said.

Wilmington started off the game with the ball on its own 23. Mello took the first three carries before taking a play off, to get three of the next four. He carried the ball six times for 67 yards, the last counting for a three-yard touchdown run giving the 'Cats the 7-0 lead after the PAT kick was good by Steve Stewart.

In that opening drive, he had several big runs including 11, 26, 14 and 11 yards, accounting for four of the team's five first downs. He said all of the credit goes to the guys in front of him.

"It's easy (to rush for 242 yards) when your (offensive) line leaves you holes a truck could drive through, you know? It was just a great job by the entire offensive line," said Mello. "We got some motivated guys like Kenny Joyce and Jon Kincaid who lead our line and they did a great job tonight."

Mello scored touchdown runs of 3, 2, 2 and 5 yards, respectively. More impressively, Wilmington had 17 first downs in the game 11 were by Mello with all but two coming on first or second down. Of his 24 carries on the night, six of them went for 10 yards or more, including one for 38 yards and another for 59 yards. He ran up the middle off center Jon Kincaid, but Mello also found holes between the tackles, outside of the ends, not to mention catching a 9-yard shuffle pass giving him 280 total yards of offense.

"Anywhere they call it, that's where we go," said Mello. "But our line is strong so they are doing good."

Spoken like a true teammate and perhaps a converted offensive guy.

Wilmington travel soccer round-up

The Girls U14A travel soccer team has had a busy couple of weeks. The ladies participated in the North Reading Kick-off tournament over Labor Day weekend in preparation for the fall season. The Wildcats have played two games so far, matched up with Waltham and Tewksbury.

The season opener with Waltham proved to be a difficult one for the locals. Despite many attempts on goal, the girls were unable to put one away and were handed their first regular season defeat in recent memory.

Week two was a more accurate portrayal of what this team can do. Despite falling behind by a goal in the first half, the girls lit up the field after halftime. Emily Crannell scored the equalizer minutes into play. The go-ahead goal was scored by Cristina Wilson, with assists by Jennifer Stewart and Rachel Grabar. The final touch came as Caitlyn McDonough centered the ball and Wilson headed it into the net.

Outstanding goaltending by Emily Schuh and Sarah Luz kept Tewksbury at bay. Great defensive work from Katie Bray and Casey Brown, and midfield support from Alexa Brown and Michaela Stone fueled the offensive attack. The Wildcats came away with a 3-1 victory.

Under 10 Girls

The Wilmington U10 girls

youth soccer travel team won their first game of the season over Stoneham recently. It was a thrilling and exciting game.

Goals were scored by Caitlin Gilgun and Heather Niemiec, who ended with three. Defense was a strong force to be reckoned with as Julianna Iocco, Haley Dilonzo, Jayne Wierzbicki, and Julianna Mastroilli kept the ball away from the goal and scoring contention.

The spectacular forwards Stephanie Figueiredo, Hannah Stark, Olivia O'Regan, Sydney Smith, and Sara Berube played a top notch game with their outstanding passing and lightning bolt speed.

Non League Volleyball match

Tewksbury overtakes Wilmington on the court

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

TEWKSBURY — Both teams came in without a win. Wilmington had been defeated by Melrose, Peabody and North Andover, while, Tewksbury was 0-for against Lowell, Westford Academy, Central Catholic and Haverhill. Both coaches, Mark Staffier on the Blue side, and Jim Ray on the Red side, seemed frustrated before the game, often during the game and puzzled throughout the game and certainly on this young season.

Through the 0-fors and the frustrations, something had to give. And on Monday afternoon, neither team played particularly well, but it was Tewksbury that emerged with its first win of the season defeating Wilmington, 3-1 (25-18, 26-16, 26-28 and 25-15), in a nonleague game played in the TMHS gymnasium.

"I think we played more as a team today than we did (in the previous four games)," said Ray. "We seemed to have been losing our confidence a little bit so we had a team meeting and we discussed focusing more on getting our hits in (play), rather than go for the kill. That was the biggest difference for us."

Tewksbury was led by a handful of players including Kristen Kennedy and Caitlin DeFrancesco, who had a combined 14 kills, while, serving the Redmen did fairly well behind Michelle Barios; 6 aces and Sammy Bohen's strong percentage. Senior captain Chelsea Paoella was very impressive in the win, coming up with 6 kills, but more importantly executing big plays whenever needed.

"Chelsea is one of our best players," said Ray. "She is just stellar in everything she does. Sometimes she gets caught up in the 'I'm a captain I gotta do this and I have to be a leader' and sometimes that takes her back a little bit. But she's a special player - she played great today."

Tewksbury took the first two games pretty easily, the first by seven points and the second by nine. Then in the third match, Wilmington started off with leads of 7-1 and 15-6, before Tewksbury rallied back cutting it to a two-point game at 18-16 and then tying the game up at 19. The teams battled back-and-forth, with Tewksbury taking leads of 22-19 and 24-22 only to see the Wildcats come back each time. Wilmington tied the game up at 24 after Erin Copeland's service point and then a minute later sealed the win on Tiffanie Davis' consecutive service points.

The teams played back-and-forth in the fourth game with five lead changes before Tewksbury took a 15-14 lead before ending the game outscoring the Wildcats 10-1 to close the casket.

"It was obvious in the first game that the girls didn't come to play," said Staffier. "I don't know what the reason was, but when they were warming up I said to my JV coach (Tracy Kassin) that 'they don't have it today'. We played a great game on Friday. We went to the fifth game, went back-and-forth against a great North Andover team and today we were just a different team."

"I went through the same thing last week. It was a tough Melrose game. But by the time we played our third match against them, we started playing like we can but we didn't do that in the first two games. Then we went to Peabody and there was nothing there. So I'm not really sure. And (Monday) in the second game (against Tewksbury) I put in an entirely new line-up and nothing happened, and in the third game I put the first line-up back in and a little fire but nothing going 100 percent. So it's something we have to work on."

Staffier said his team's problems are very simple.

"They just weren't moving. They weren't calling the ball and they weren't communicating," said Staffier.

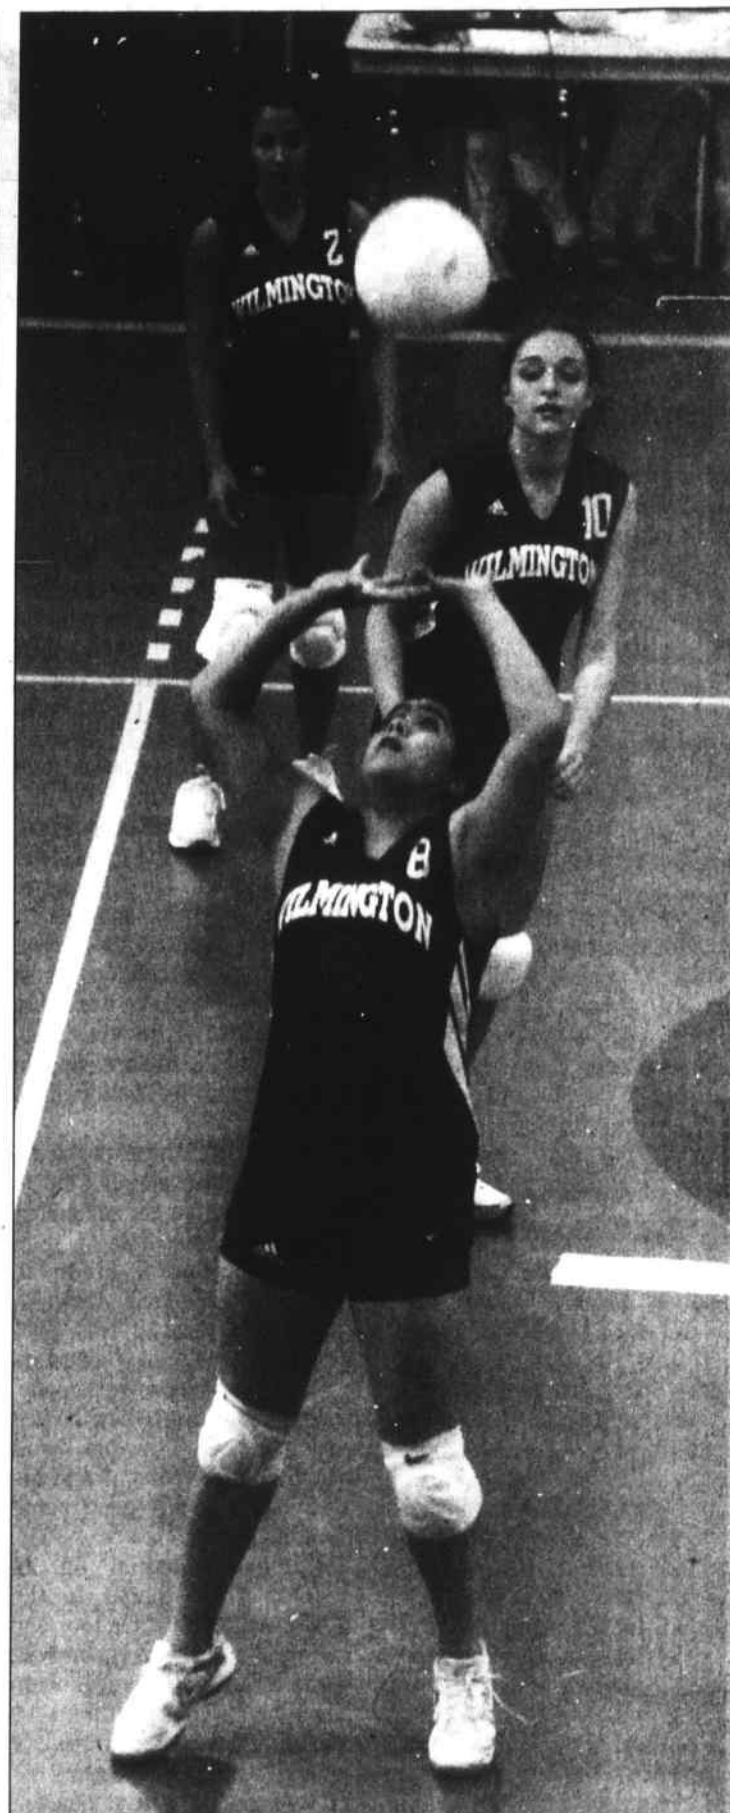

Copeland ended the game with four aces, and Amica Dimambro had four service points in the second game, while, Theresa McMahon and Amanda Hollenbeck each had three kills in the losing effort.

"We're now four games in the hole so we have our work cut out for ourselves because our goal is still to make it to the state tournament," said Staffier. "So on the plus side maybe (winning the third game against Tewksbury) will pull us forward and help us (on Tuesday)."

That indeed paid off as

Wilmington recorded its first win of the season on Tuesday beating Watertown, 3-0, to improve to 1-4 on the season.

Wilmington returns home on Friday afternoon to face Hamilton-Wenham, before traveling to Stoneham on Monday. As for Tewksbury, they host Dracut on Friday and Andover on Wednesday.

A comedy night to benefit the fifth annual James Mark McGonagle II scholarship will be held on October 5th at the Montvale Plaza in Stoneham from 7-12 P.M. The tickets cost $50.00 per person and the deadline to purchase tickets is October 1st.

Family and friends have remembered Jim McGonagle for five years by way of a scholarship night. There will be a dinner buffet, and the comedians will be Paul Gilligan, Tony V., Dave Russo and Dan Crowley. Scholarships will be awarded. And there will be a silent auction, a door prize, and raffles. If you would like to purchase your tickets now please email mmcgonagle@aol.com, or check the website at jimacmemorial.com.

Some people are athletes. And some are beyond athletic. This applies to Kristin McCowan, a 1987 graduate of Wilmington High School. A few weeks ago she completed her second Ironman event in Louisville, Kentucky.

An Ironman event consists of a 2.4 mile swim in the Ohio River, followed by a 112 mile bike ride and a 26.2 mile run. You can get tired just reading that.

McCowan finished 17th of 62 in her division and in the top third overall. Kristin is currently a dietician working in Somerville. She received her Masters degree from Simmons College.

The Bocce League run by the Wilmington Recreation Department ended recently, and it was a great success. The home of Jack Cushing on Middlesex St was witness to some great bocce play. This was the inaugural year of the tournament, but its great turnout should prompt another year. This years winners were Evan Walsh and Roman Walsh.

Rosemary Nesline and Jacqueline Iocco, both of Wilmington, completed the Hyannis Sprint II Triathlon on Saturday, September 8. This was the second time they finished the event. This particular event consisted of a quarter mile swim, a 10 mile bike trek and a 3.6 mile run.

The Wilmington Pop Warner D1-Team is currently sitting at 2-0. Many scouts around Eastern Mass are predicting an undefeated season for the Wildcats and a trip to the post-season. They face their biggest challenge this Sunday morning against the Woburn Trojans. Last year, the Wildcats scored two unanswered touchdowns in the second half to win the game and preserve their perfect season.

Wilmington High School's Vinny Papageorgiou has really achieved a lot of attention for his stellar play as a goalie for the soccer team over his four years. Last Tuesday, the senior keeper was featured in the Lowell Sun. The article, written by Carmine Frongillo, states it like this, "A lonely sentinel with nerves of steel when it comes to guarding the Wildcats' net, this senior keeper may not stop every shot that comes his way, but he seemingly makes all the saves that truly matter in his down-to-earth attitude deciding the outcome of a "refreshing" game."

Papageorgiou is humble, focused, and downright talented. Coach Steve Scanlon called

Pats cheaters? No bearing on anything

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

So the Patriots cheated. They filmed the Jets defensive coordinators and their signals. Here is a message to the NFL: Who cares?

Now, cheating should not be condoned under any circumstances. And yes this does put a spot on the Patriots dynasty. But this is being blown way out of proportion. The Patriots are the best team in the NFL right now, no ifs, ands or buts. Tom Brady was scary with Reche Caldwell and Jabar Gaffney. With Randy Moss, Donte Stallworth and Wes Welker? Brady makes Freddy Kruger and Michael Myers look like Regis and Kathy.

The Pats annihilated a good San Diego team Sunday night. The Pats dismantled their defense and shut down LaDainian Tomlinson, the alleged greatest football player ever. John Madden and Al Michaels made terrible joke after terrible joke on "CameraGate". It was nauseating after a while, and I certainly won't stoop to that.

The Notre Dame Fighting Irish are 0-3. That just sounds funny. This doesn't particularly bother me because I don't like the Irish. Regardless, this is a testament to the parity in football across the country. Athletes are in such good shape coming out of high school with athletic aspirations that the gap between the superpowers and D-II's has been bridged.

My favorite television show (besides 24) is back on the air. The Contender is on ESPN on Tuesday nights at 10. This show revives what little fan base is left for boxing. New boxers get a shot at national exposure and get to train with some legends. I haven't been able to say UFC is better than boxing yet, and this show is why. The reason UFC has gotten a bigger fanbase is because PayPer View has killed the average fan. UFC shows their title fights on cable, boxing charges 35 bucks to watch meaningless bouts. The Contender makes fairly marketable fighters and keeps giving them bouts on ESPN. Finally, some common sense in the boxing world. And to think Sly Stallone is the Executive Producer.

Bills player Kevin Everett, who received the gruesome neck injury two weeks ago, is coming along fantastically. While every media outlet pushes the Patriots story, this man is having a miraculous turnaround. He has voluntary movement in his extremities and doctors are saying he could even go home soon. Godspeed Kevin.

OJ Simpson could get life in prison. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy. The police found tape of OJ breaking in to a Las Vegas hotel room. I bet the Patriots had

Wilmington High Field Hockey captain

What was your initial reaction when you were named captain?

When Coach (Carol) Mutchler put the captain's band in my hand after practice a few weeks ago, I was in complete shock. I think I might have screamed and asked her if she was serious. It took me a second to realize what had happened since I wasn't expecting it at all, but I was really happy!

As a captain, what kinds of examples do you want to set for the underclassmen?

I want to share a love for the game with all of the underclassmen. I also hope that we can keep up the spirits and good attitudes of the younger girls because I think that the attitude you come to a game with reflects on how you play and if you'll win. I believe we can continue to work hard as a team and show the underclassmen our enthusiasm and hopefully a good record.

Who are some of your role models, on or off the field?

Well of course my parents, but on the field I definitely look up to our three coaches for Freshmen, JV, and Varsity. Maura (Lynch), Jodi (MacKenzie), and Coach Mutchler all played when they were in high school so I feel they really know what they're doing.

Talk about your team this year and how you think you will do.

This season has been a big turn-around practice-wise. We've been trying a lot more scrimmaging instead of just skills work. The main thing we're trying to work on is scoring, since that seems to be our biggest weakness in games. I feel that this year the team is playing ten times better on the field, we just have to keep working on the actual scoring.

What was your best field hockey moment?

This season, my best field hockey moment was more of a team moment; when we won our game against Newburyport. It was a great feeling, we have been working so hard in practice and it finally paid off. The ride home was also the best team bonding we've ever had since everyone was in such high spirits.

How long have you been playing field hockey?

I started playing field hockey in 8th grade in the Middle School's league. I continued playing all four years of high school.

What are some other hobbies you have?

During field hockey season, my hobbies are very limited. My day consists of school, field hockey practice or a game, homework, and sleeping. On weekends I go out most nights but I'm usually working all day Saturday and Sunday.

How was your summer? Travel anywhere?

I was actually really busy this summer. I worked almost everyday and did a field hockey league with the team a few nights a week. I also went to Russia for a few weeks with my family which was definitely the most amazing part of my summer. It was incredible to see some of the things that are a part of my heritage.

What are your plans for after high school?

After high school I plan on going to college, and hopefully pursuing a career in medicine. I still haven't decided if I will play field hockey in college, it all depends on the school and division. If I don't play at the varsity level in college I definitely plan on at least joining a club team.

What is your favorite subject?

This year I surprisingly like all of my classes. I would probably say I like anatomy and calculus the best. They're my hardest and most stressful classes but I've always been better in those kinds of subjects.

Better late than never for Rams football team

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

WESTFORD - It's not how you start, but how you finish. Just ask the Red Sox. Or the Yankees. Or on a happier note, the Shawsheen Tech football team, who saw their non-league game against Nashoba Tech on Friday night get off to a horrendous start, but rallied to put on a great effort for the rest of the game and finally sealed their 27-16 victory with a clutch drive in the fourth quarter.

Nashoba Tech got on the board first with just over three minutes left in the first quarter after recovering an onside kick on the opening kickoff, and driving for a quick score, but it was the Rams who had the last laugh in a victory that improved their record to 2-0 on the season, while the Vikings fell to 1-1.

Sophomore Chris Clark rushed for 120 yards and a pair of touchdowns to spark a Rams rushing attack that totaled 185 yards on the night and senior Pat Fullerton ran for a score of his own, while senior quarterback Joe Gore of Wilmington had a long touchdown pass.

Nashoba Tech appeared to catch the Rams completely off guard with the onside kick on the opening kickoff, recovering at the Shawsheen 47 yard line. A well orchestrated 13 play drive led by the strong running of Jeff Gerace was capped off when Gerace burst through the Shawsheen line for a seven yard touchdown run with 3:10 left in the first quarter. Gerace also ran in the two point conversion for an 8-0 Vikings lead.

"On the road you really want to start fast and we really got off on the wrong foot," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "We made a mistake and they took advantage of it. They were excited to be at home and were ready for us at the start of the game."

While Nashoba had a long sustained drive for their first points of the game, the Rams needed only three plays to get on the board once they got the ball for the first time. Taking over at their 36 yard line, they got runs 15 and 18 yards from Clark, giving them a first down at the Nashoba 31 yard line and Fullerton took it from there rambling down the right side-line and then making a high reel play at the two yard line, hurdling the Vikings defender and into the end zone with 4:11 seconds left in the quarter. Ryan McLaughlin added the extra point to bring the Rams within 8-7.

The Rams took a lead they would never relinquish midway through the second quarter, when after a failed fake punt attempt by Nashoba, they took over on the Vikings 32 yard line. Eight plays later Clark scored his first touchdown of the game on a nine yard gallop to make the score 14-8 with 6:00 left in the half.

Moments earlier Fullerton had picked up two yards on a fourth and one to give the Rams first and goal at the nine.

After holding Nashoba to a three and out on their next possession, and getting a 30 yard return from Derek Sorenson, the Rams would tack on one more score before the end of the half when Gore hit Mike Allen with a perfect placed 54 yard scoring strike down the left sideline on their first play from scrimmage to make the score 20-8 with 4:44 left in the half.

"We've got some real good receivers and with Joe as a third year starter we are able to score like that and it keeps the defense honest," Costabile said.

Joel Mignault made sure the lead stayed at 12 points with an interception at the Rams one yard line with 23 seconds left in the half.

After both teams went three and out on their first possession of the second half, Nashoba put together what had to be the most impressive drive of the game, a 17 play 73 yard drive that chewed up over 10 minutes and culminated in a one yard blast by Gerace for his second touchdown of the game with 7:01 left in the contest. When Gerace scored another two point conversion the Vikings were within 20-16 and had all the momentum on their side.

Instead of wilting under the pressure, the Rams responded in fine style, led by the running of Clark, Fullerton and Gore. Gore picked up a key first down during the five play drive with an 18 yard run, and on the next play Clark bolted around the left side on a sweep and sprinted down the sideline for a 39 yard touchdown run with 6:45 left in the game to make the score 27-16 after McLaughlin's extra point.

"Twice in this game I really liked the way we came back," Costabile said. "After their opening touchdown and then after they pulled to 20-16. It's the fourth quarter and we have just a four point lead against a home team with all the momentum. But we were really able to answer the bell in that situa-

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Boys Soccer team pulls out two big wins

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech boys soccer team continued its fine start to the season this week with a pair of victories over Commonwealth Athletic Conference opponents, improving their record to 3-0-1 on the season.

The Rams most recent win came on Monday afternoon with a hard fought 3-2 road win over CAC Upper Division rival Lynn Tech at the Manning Bowl. All of the scoring in the game came in the first half, with senior Brian Conway scoring the game winner at the 32 minute mark of the half, tipping in an indirect kick from teammate Eric McLaughlin.

The Rams had gone out to a 2-0 lead with goals from McLaughlin and Luke Riberio, but Lynn Tech had come back to tie the game at the 30 minute mark before McLaughlin and Conway hooked up to give them their third win of the season and more importantly their first over an Upper Division opponent in their first season as an Upper Division team.

"This was a big win for us against a team you know you will have to compete with," Barris said. "It was a good overall team win for us. Lynn Tech lost to Chelsea just 2-1 so that is a pretty good sign for us."

Junior goalie Mike LaMonica, who has been outstanding in the early going for the Rams had another fine game in this one with 10 saves.

"We had a couple of scary moments in the second half and Mike came up big for us," Barris said. "With about four minutes left he made a real nice save to keep the score the way it was."

Tewksbury's Calvin McMillan played a strong all around game for the Rams.

In their previous game last Thursday afternoon, the Rams hosted CAC Lower Division rival Minuteman in a league crossover game and came away with a 2-1 win with McLaughlin once again leading the way on offense with a pair of goals while senior Craig Pease added the other score along with an assist.

McMillan, meanwhile assisted on Pease's goal in the first half, the only score for either team in the opening frame, while Jeff Jaimes and Pease assisted on McLaughlin's first goal.

LaMonica also played well in this victory, playing the first 65 minutes of the game and not allowing a goal.

Prior to the win over Minuteman, they routed non-league rival Cathedral by a score of 9-0 early last week with LaMonica playing forward and scoring two goals, while Wilmington residents Andrew Puccio and Andy Maga also each had a goal.

"It was good to see some other kids score goals," Barris said. "And the really nice part of it for us was that I made substitutions early so our second team actually scored three of our first four goals. I was pleased to see the second team get some quality time."

Girls Soccer

The girls soccer team at the Tech is off to a strong start of their own as they had a 2-0 record after a 1-0 victory over CAC rival Northeast on Friday afternoon at Shawsheen. The Lady Rams got their only goal of the game from Heather Masse, who scored on a great set up from Stephanie Walsh on a corner kick ten minutes into the second half.

Shawsheen also got 17 saves from senior goalie and Wilmington resident Kim Stockton, who has yet to allow a goal through the first two games of the season, including a 6-0 season opening win over Lynn Tech last Tuesday.

Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud was pleased to see his team come away with the win against Northeast, and felt his team could have won by even more.

"We had come real close on a corner kick just before that and we had some other chances as well so we felt we were really bound to get one," Michaud said. "Stephanie made a nice pass, and Heather went around the defender and put a nice shot on net and the goalie was out of position. It was a nice play."

As for Stockton, Michaud has loved what he has seen so far this season, and the victory over Northeast was no exception.

"In the first half, play was really back and forth and Kim saw a lot of shots," Michaud said. "She kept us in the game at that point."

Michaud was pleased to see his team come up with a win over a quality opponent like Northeast after handily defeating Lynn Tech earlier in the week.

"Lynn Tech is not as advanced as Northeast. They are a new program," Michaud said. "So it was good for us to open with them, but also good to see a higher level of competition against Northeast."

Against Lynn Tech, the Lady Rams wasted no time at all in establishing their dominance, as they scored twice in the first five minutes of the game, and it was sophomore Jenn Carroll of Wilmington that got the job done, scoring the first two goals and notching three for the game.

"Jenn is playing well," Michaud said. "She also had a near miss against Northeast. We know she can score based on what she did last year and she is off to a good start this year."

The entire team in fact seems to be off to a great start, and Michaud is beginning to see the players come together as a group in the early going. There is a lot to live up to after last year's 13-3-1 mark, and Michaud is not predicting that yet, but he does like what he has seen.

"Sometimes you think this is the same team as last year, but it is a different team," Michaud said. "They are still a very good team, but it is a little different as far as the chemistry of the team goes. I think the team really gelled together during the Northeast game, so hopefully that will continue."

Golf

The Shawsheen golf team entered this season with great expectations after back to back CAC titles and they have done little to indicate that this year will be any different as they are off to a 3-0 start on the young season with their most recent victory coming over Billerica by a score of 7-2 on Monday afternoon at Billerica Country Club.

"It was a tough contest all the way to the end," Shawsheen coach Tom Struthers said. "I was kind of surprised because Billerica lost a lot of seniors off of last year's team, but they are a very well coached team. A lot of the matches came down to the last hole."

One that did not come down to the last hole was number one player and reigning CAC MVP Brandon Porter, who won by a score of 7-2 for the Rams, shooting a 37.

"Brandon played very well for us today, which is not surprise," Struthers said. "He is a very good player and he is very consistent."

Other winners for the Rams included number two DJ Shepherd, who shot a 38 on his way to a 5.5-3.5, victory along with senior Jon McDonald of Tewksbury, with a 6-3 win.

Also picking up points for the Rams were senior Steve Tello of Wilmington with a 4.5-4.5 tie and freshman Dan Jacobs who also tied his match by the same score. The Rams got best ball points from Porter and Tello (6-3), Shepherd and Brett Fredricksen (5-4) and McDonald and Jacobs (5-4).

As Struthers said, many of the matches were very close, but his team seemed to come up with the big shots when they needed it most.

"There is no doubt I am kind of blessed with this team because they always seem to come through, especially Brandon," Struthers said. "Every time you watch him it is a show."

The Rams pout on quite a show in their first two matches of the season, last week against non-league foes Waltham and Arlington Catholic, coming away with resounding 9-0 victories in both matches.

Tello and McDonald are off to great stats for the Rams with Tello winning by scores of 6-3 and 5-4 in last week's matches, while McDonald rolled to victories by scores of 7-2 and 8-5-0.5.

"Steve has come through for us with some big points. He was down by one today at the sixth hole, but he fought back to tie and he had some big shots to in his other matches," Struthers said. "And Jon sometimes seems to get lost in the shuffle because Brandon is so good, but he is a very strong golfer. He likes to have fun out on the course and he loves the competition. That is when he shines the most."

Potcner's goals reach another level

appear in any games last season, he was still able to practice with the team. He said that this was beneficial coming into this year because it gave him a good idea on what was to be expected of him.

Priestly said that the coaching staff is happy with the improvement Potcner has made over the last two years. He said that Potcner brings some attributes onto the field that make him a dangerous player.

"We are pleased with Stephen's progress thus far, and we expect that he will keep doing the things that have brought him success," he said. "We're pretty clear with our expectations of our players, and Stephen has responded well."

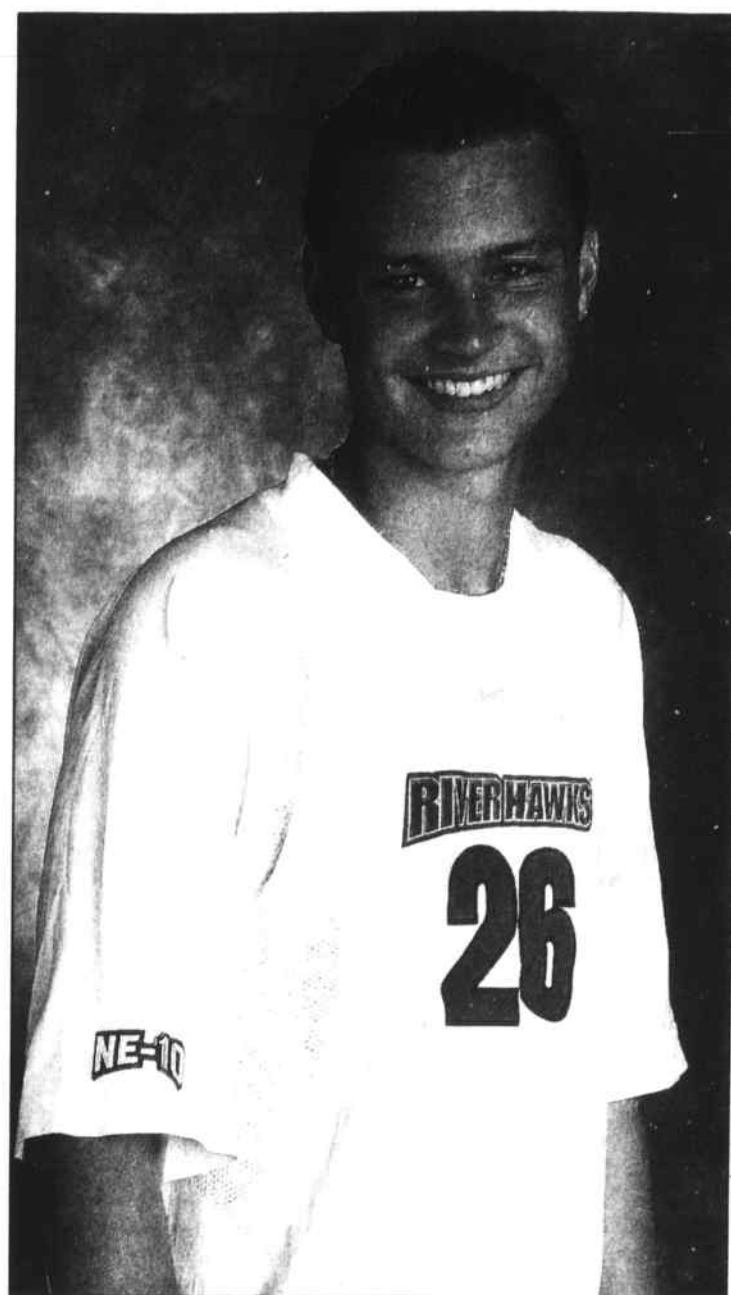

"Stephen's height and speed make for a difficult marking assignment for any defender, and he has a true 'nose for the goal,' in terms of his positioning and movement. He is a very bright and capable player."

Potcner hasn't found the net since his two goal outburst, but that hasn't been because of a lack of effort. He has seen time in every game so far this season, and had a shot in last Wednesday's 1-0 victory over Bryant. Potcner knows there are parts of his game that need work.

"I can improve on making better runs and adapting to the style that we play here," he said.

The Riverhawks are off to a sensational start this year, boasting a record of 5-1-1. As of September 11th, they are ranked #22 in the country, according to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Life as a student-athlete isn't a piece of cake. Potcner practices everyday except for game days, in addition to a full course load. He credits Priestly for helping him buy into the program.

"The coach is great. He's probably the best coach I've ever been with," he said. "He got me really excited about the program. We're a great team now."

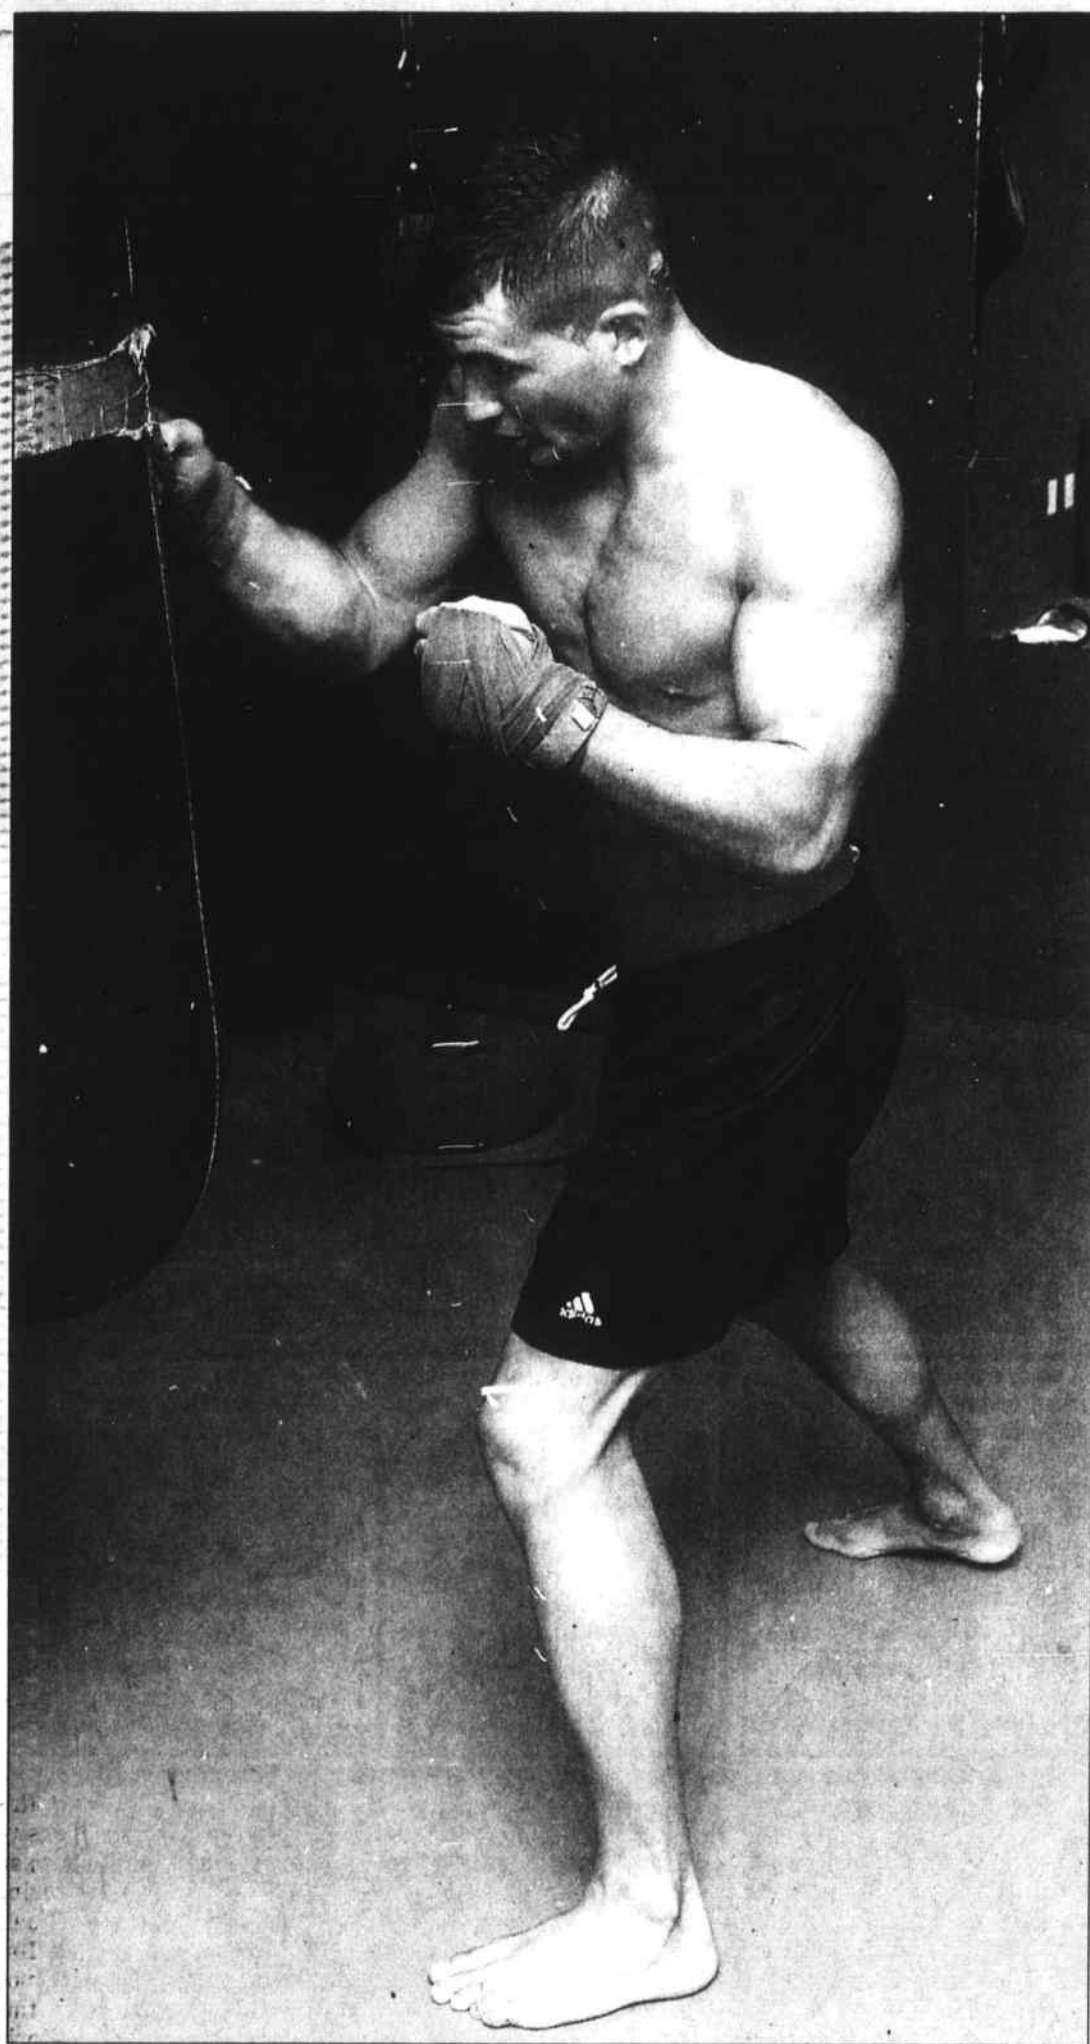

Potcner hasn't started in any games so far this season. However, Priestly said that Potcner will have chances to get more playing time as the season progresses.

"We will continue to put players in the roles that they have earned, and encourage each player to try to win a starting position," he said. "It is a long season, and there will be opportunities for everyone."

The Riverhawks next game is on Saturday at American International University. Potcner's goals for the rest of the season are simple.

"I want to get some more playing time," he said. "Hopefully I can help the team win."

out opponents." Thai training methods develop devastating power, speed and superb cardio-vascular endurance as well as fighting spirit. While Campbell has always been in terrific shape between playing football at WHS, Merrimack College and for the Mayhem semi-pro league, he said this kind of training is something he has never experienced before.

"The training really takes a lot out of you," he said. "Everyday you're doing something whether it's boxing, Muay Thai, groundwork, road and pad work. The professionals who do it, it's their job. But amateurs like me, we work an eight hour day and then you go work out and by the end of the night, you're dead. It just takes a lot out of you."

Campbell, who graduated from Merrimack College in 2004, is employed by the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department working as a correctional officer for the past five months. While the training does take its toll, Campbell said that he does get some extra dough as a fighter making anywhere from 500 to 700 dollars, as well as 20 percent of the ticket sales he brings in.

This Friday night, doors open at 7:00 pm, with the first fight scheduled to begin at 8:00 pm. Another fellow WHS football and wrestler Dan Bonnell is the fourth scheduled fight on the card, and Campbell is the 10th. And regardless of the decision, Campbell said this fight in front of the home crowd could be his last.

"I wanted to try it out and just see how I did," he said. "But depending on how I do, this could be my last fight. It's not bad going out 3-0 if I do indeed win. It's a lot of hard work and it takes a lot out of you so I just don't know how long I want to do it for."

If you would like to attend Friday's event at the Shriner's Auditorium in Wilmington, tickets are $35.00 each and may be purchased by logging on to: <http://wcfightingtix.com>, or you may call 800-595-4849, or you may call Jamie Campbell at 978-430-5804. Doors open at 7:00 pm and the first fight is scheduled at 8:00 pm. Food and a full bar will be available.

Local car enthusiasts meet in North Reading

Meet you at Kitty's

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Kitty's Restaurant in North Reading is serving up more than the ample dishes of good food at its Route 28 location. Every Thursday night there is a chance to see a collection of some of the finest restored antique, muscle and customized cars in the area and now there is entertainment on a monthly basis.

All of this means that the family owned restaurant has something for everyone in the family. Just as it has been since the White family bought the place from Elizabeth "Kitty" McCarthy back in 1947.

Manager and family historian Debbie Birkmaier said,

"This is really a family business that is our basic premise."

Birkmaier's grandparents, George and Susan White, and an aunt, Mary Mogan bought the former clam and pizza place from McCarthy. Now brothers Ron and George White run the operation, with the third generation, such as Birkmaier and her cousin Scotty White, learning the trade as well.

We serve good food and a lot of food in a casual atmosphere," Birkmaier said, commenting on the continuing popularity of the restaurant. "We've said to our father (Ron) 'cut down on the portions' and he says 'No!' He wants to make sure people are well fed."

Well fed they are. There are very few patrons of the restaurant that can finish the ample portions on the plates. Many people will share their food and others will bring home the leftovers with enough for a second meal.

Not only are the portions plentiful. They ingredients are fresh and properly cooked. On a recent visit the fried clams and onion rings on this reporter's plate were overflowing.

The fried foods were clean and crispy. Even an uneducated food gourmet could tell they were cooked in clean oil that is changed daily.

The salads are huge, almost dinners in themselves, and the lettuce is never wilted, the tomatoes are tasty, the cumpers are crisp and the croutons are lightly baked. All of the salad dressings are very tasty, with a personal favorite being the peppercorn ranch dressing or the house Italian dressing.

Kitty's is also known for the variety of foods on the menu. It is best to have one's mind made up before arriving or it could take some time to decide on the many different dishes spanning the range from seafood, poultry, steaks, chops and Italian entrees.

Do not let the family name fool you. Birkmaier claimed that the family is three-quarters Italian heritage. It shows in the zestiness and heartiness of the red gravies and the light crusts on the eggplant, as well as the wide varieties of pasta that is served at just the right texture.

"We are three-quarters Italian," Birkmaier said. "The Italian recipes we use are very protected. When the family started out they all pitched in together and came up with the recipes."

According to Birkmaier, "The food is a good draw for functions. We do small weddings and showers. The room rates are reasonable."

She also noted that the rooms are ready for those thinking ahead to start their planning for holiday parties. Buffets can be arranged for parties over 50 people or meals can be ordered off the menu.

"We do a lot of holiday trays for office parties, Birkmaier added. "We do a lot of pizza parties for sports teams and area school events."

Over the years, Kitty's has grown from a one small one room restaurant to its present three room facility in a pleasant brick front building on a nicely landscaped property. The property sits on the corner of routes 28 and 62 and there is ample parking available.

The three rooms includes the main dining room on the site of the original wood front building, the function hall, hall, which can hold about 175 people and the Red Room, a lounge and featuring two large curving bars and high topped tables as well as a few booths.

According to Birkmaier, this room has been a big draw to many people who might want to come in for a sociable meal or to sit, relax and watch a sporting event on the many televisions throughout the room. A chance at Keno is another draw keeping the room busy on any given night.

Birkmaier, recalled coming into the restaurant as a young girl. At that time the main dining room was only about half the size it is now, but it had a dance floor and there was entertainment on Friday and Saturday nights.

She noted that the younger generation of the family is bringing the entertainment back. Local entertainer Jim Plunkett brings his special brand of music from the 1980's and '90's once a month, with his next appearance scheduled for Friday, September 21.

Recently they have been holding Comedy Nights on a monthly basis. The next Comedy Night is scheduled for November 17.

However, Scotty White has been adding his own brand of entertainment to the mix. An avid car collector, with six vehicles of his own, he and some friends got together last year and started to use the rear portion of the parking lot to show off their cars.

The concept grew and on any given Thursday night between early spring and early winter, there are between 150 and 200 vehicles being shown. Food is sold outside and on many nights vendors show up to sell their wares.

White said, "We might start competitions next year."

Even with the large amount of cars being shown on Thursday nights, there is still plenty of parking left over for diners in the restaurant.

Kitty's is a family restaurant in more ways than just the ownership. Many of the employees have worked in the establishment for several years.

According to Birkmaier, two waitresses retired recently after 30 years of service. For many of the employees it is a family affair, with mothers and daughters, sons and fathers, and even a couple of husband and wife teams working together. That makes a huge statement for a business that is known for transient help.

Kitty's is open 364 days a year. They are closed on Christmas

THE BRAVE ONE

Movie Reviews by Paul Feely

"the Brave One" a rarity

ACTRESS JODIE FOSTER WITH TERENCE HOWARD in "The Brave One" now playing in theatres. New York radio host Erica Bain (Jodie Foster) has a life that she loves and a fiancé she adores. All of it is taken from her when a brutal attack leaves Erica badly wounded and her fiancé dead. Unable to move past the tragedy, Erica begins prowling the city streets at night to track down the men she holds responsible.

"THE BRAVE ONE"

GRADE: ***

Jodie Foster's new film "The Brave One" is about how a random act of violence changes a woman who survives it; how she becomes someone darker and colder, unafraid to do what she needs to take back the night. The film is a rarity: a violent action movie with a heart and soul.

Foster, looking thin and taut, plays Erica Bain, an NPR radio commentator whose life with her fiancé, David (Naveen Andrews), seems almost too happy. That life ends, quickly and horribly, as they walk their dog one night in Central Park. A gang of thugs ambushes them, one wielding a camera-phone. Both are beaten savagely. David is killed. Erica nearly so.

Weeks later, she leaves the hospital and goes home, to an empty apartment and dead flowers in a vase. Fearful and altered, she slowly transforms, gradually choosing to embrace violence rather than shrink from it. As stories of vigilante crime grip the city, police detective Sean Mercer (Terrence Howard) steps slowly closer to the truth.

Foster, in a performance of quiet, devastating honesty, takes hold of the movie, walking us through Erica's gradual transformation.

Though the action sometimes feels a bit contrived (it seems unlikely that Erica would suddenly have so many unconnected encounters with violent situations, so close together), the actors make us believe it all.

The film, which makes us understand Erica's actions without requiring us to approve of them, will likely inspire much discussion. Foster's long line of work paints a picture of a mature, confident artist unafraid to tackle dark, questionable territory, and this film is a worthy addition to her portfolio.

"3:10 TO YUMA"

GRADE: ****

"3:10 to Yuma" offers plenty of guns-blazing, pulse-pounding action, but it's the excellent lead performances that stay with you.

Russell Crowe and Christian Bale play, essentially, opposite numbers in James Mangold's ("Walk the Line") update of the 1957 film of the same name.

Crowe plays notorious criminal Ben Wade, who crosses paths with cattle rancher Dan Evans (Bale) after Wade and his gang rob a coach full of Southern Pacific money. As Dan and his sons watch from afar, Wade proves himself to be the remorseless criminal of legend.

Crowe's killer is cerebral and seductive. Crowe plays Wade as slightly amused in general but fully engaged when addressing someone who interests him, especially when that someone is female.

When Wade ends up at Dan's ranch house, Dan's wife (Gretchen Mol, whose old-school beauty suits the setting) quickly gets taken in. Dan's older boy (Logan Lerman, bursting with adolescent energy) recognizes immediately that the criminal is a far more powerful presence than his dad.

Nobody is all good or bad, and the spaces in between keep the ever-evolving relationship between Wade and Evans interesting. The rancher, a former Union sharpshooter who lost part of his leg in the war, needs money to save his ranch, so he joins the ragtag band of men accompanying Wade, after the criminal is captured, to the train that will take him to prison.

Bale is instantly sympathetic, a visibly vulnerable guy who seems unable to catch a break. A drought has ravaged his land and he no longer can provide for his family. The angular Bale looks hungry, in sharp contrast to the full-faced Crowe.

What follows is the predictable parade of gunplay, along with some more intimate acts of violence. The action is no more credible than a 1950s shoot-'em-up, but it's a lot more exciting (and occasionally disturbing). The film is beautifully shot, with vivid close-ups of wheeling horses and smoking six-guns. And the performances are top-notch, particularly the chemistry between the two stars as they move from guarded respect to macho rivalry to... well, no need to spoil the ending.

It's all great fun, not to be taken too seriously - which would be fine, except that one gets the sense that this film wants to be taken seriously. With the exception of Bale's acting, however, everything in Yuma is an amped-up cliché.

Even more over-the-top is Ben Foster as Wade's lieutenant, whose quick-draw skills would give Doc Holliday a scare.

What 3:10 to Yuma lacks in believability and originality, however, it makes up for in excitement.

"HALLOWEEN"

GRADE: **

There are instances in Rob Zombie's prequel/remake of John Carpenter's Halloween where killer Michael Myers is compared to Frankenstein's monster. The idea that society made Myers into the bogeyman isn't necessarily a new one, but the challenge of looking at 10 year-old Michael Myers (in a terrific performance by Daeg Faerch) as a real kid is by far the strongest stuff in Zombie's undertaking.

Treated as garbage by his stepfather, sister and classmates, Myers' instability is first revealed when he gives his pet rat a live dissection. The kid starts killing people, and they're not clean murders. Zombie registers the finality of death - letting us feel the weight of a human life being taken away. Once the film steps into a remake of the Carpenter film in its second half, it loses its seriousness.

As soon as Michael Myers becomes a faceless evil killing force, Zombie wants to forget that he introduced him as a human. The setup feels like part of a separate movie. Even the filmmaking takes a hit. When Rush's "Tom Sawyer" plays before a murder, Zombie doesn't build it to the expected melee of violence and classic rock that would have made the scene memorable. (An earlier moment of child Myers' dawning apathy set to Nazareth's "Love Hurts" is fantastic.)

There's an effort to update the story through the contemporary slang of the three teenage friends Myers' targets (played by Scout Taylor-Compton, Kristina Klebe, and series fan-fave Danielle Harris).

When portions of the film so closely resemble the original, you wonder why Zombie wanted to reinvent the wheel at all.

Movies

the first hour could be hazardous to his health.

Annie Braddock (Scarlett Johansson) can't get a job after graduating from college. Her mother, Judy (Donna Murphy) is ambitious for her because she has devoted her life to earning the money to educate Annie.

Despondent about a failed job interview, Annie takes a job as a Nanny after meeting Grayer X in the park. Mrs. X (Laura Linney) sees them together and offers her the job.

The first hour of this is terminal movie-watching. It is such a formula. Guess what, Annie meets a hot guy, Harvard Hottie (Chris Evans) and a stifled romance ensues, which raises another of the movie's conceits, the fact that Evans' character couldn't have a real name. Maybe this is the kind of stuff chicks find cute and appealing.

Guess what, Mr. X (Paul Giamatti) is having an affair. Make that several affairs. He's an unlikable jerk. But, then, so is Mrs. X, even though she's faced with a loveless marriage and a faithless husband. With a little thought and a little more work, this could have been a commentary on self-indulgent parents, but it ends up being formulaic and the characters are superficial.

Everyone did a pretty good job of acting, even though the script is derivative and the directing uninspired. I like Johansson, but she doesn't have much to work with here.

"SUPERBAD"
GRADE: ***

For pure laughs, for the experience of just sitting in a chair and breaking up every minute or so, "Superbad" is 2007's most successful comedy. Other comedies - such as Judd Apatow's "Knocked Up" (Apatow serves as producer on this one) have been more ambitious and in some ways more satisfying. But nothing onscreen this year has been as funny as this. This is laugh-out-loud stuff, a real giddy pleasure.

It's a high school comedy, and the humor is sometimes crude, but the impulse behind the humor isn't crude at all. Behind its bits, "Superbad" is loaded with genuine and truthful observations about what it's like to be a high school senior, to have the mind of an adult and the judgment of a toddler, to have tremendous longings and yet no power.

"Superbad" captures the hardships of being that age and the magic, too - the way that one party can hold all the promise of the universe, or a single night can open up into a series of astounding adventures. It mainly deals with what it's like to be a guy that age, the embarrassing agonies, the stupidities and the ecstasies. But an unexpected virtue of "Superbad" is that it has sensitivity for the girls' point of view as well.

Produced by Apatow, directed by Greg Mottola ("The Daytrippers") and written by Seth Rogen ("Knocked Up") and Evan Goldberg, the movie was cast with a sophisticated eye for young comic talent. In the lead roles, as best friends, it places heavy Jonah Hill and slim and watchful Michael Cera, who at 19 already has unique comic timing and a masterful, dry delivery. Seth (Hill) and Evan (Cera) are approaching the end of senior year without having had a great romance.

They're bemoaning their lot in life, and then an opportunity comes their way. They're invited to a party. The only hitch is that they're entrusted with buying all the liquor for the party, and neither of them has a fake ID. Most of "Superbad" tells the story of their efforts to buy the liquor and get to the party. Sounds simple enough. It isn't.

To make the purchase, they're forced to deal with the one guy they would not want to involve, the incredibly nerdy Fogell.

Rogen and Bill Hader show up as a pair of small-town cops who are no more mature than the high school boys, and they take Fogell under their wing as their best buddy. Underlying "Superbad" is anxiety about the future. Soon Seth and Evan will be going off to different colleges, and they know their friendship will never be the same again.

ICE CREAM EXERCISE: ALWAYS IN SEASON

Simply: yum (Wilmington)

"Everyone knows that the best place to go after a game is Jimmie's Home Made Ice Cream," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Wilmington families often visit the shop after soccer, baseball, and basketball games looking for one of Celeste Scifo's sweet frozen treats. Open year round at the intersection of Shawshen Avenue and Hopkins Street, Jimmie's brings some of the best New England ice cream to this active corner of Wilmington.

"Celeste became a small-business owner when she opened Jimmie's in 2005 as a 19-year-old right out of high school. Using the distinctly New England moniker for ice cream 'sprinkles' as the name of her business, customers sometimes still get confused and ask for Jimmie.

"Whenever they do, I just point at the bowl of jimmies," says Scifo. Perhaps the biggest lesson Scifo has learned from her three years as an ice cream entrepreneur is that good service sells.

"If we're friendly to our customers, they're happy. We have to be extra nice. Nobody needs to eat ice cream," Scifo points out. "If you're not nice, customers are not going to come back."

"Scifo employs two high school students year round, though they have gone off to college and Scifo will need to find some new faces, a hard task as she notes how hard the girls have worked to contribute to the business.

"This is my life, I love it," declares Scifo. "It's taught me responsibility. I wouldn't change it for the world. If I wasn't married, I would be married to this place."

"As a mother, Scifo finds balancing work and motherhood a challenge, like many mothers. 'It's tricky balancing that, but I manage....'

"For families looking for a spot to relish the game, to ice cream aficionados ready to impress with hand-packed pints, to harried parents needing help with birthday party supplies, keep this Wilmington jewel in mind.

"We have a little bit of everything here," says Scifo. "She's right."

Definitely: great (Stoneham)

"With the sun's warm rays beaming down upon the waters from a clear blue sky speckled with welcoming puffy white clouds, several kayaks could be spotted gliding along shady shores," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Warmly greeting visitors at the Spot Pond boat ramp, far from the distant kayakers on the horizon, Eastern Mountain Sports (EMS) representative Willow Furey makes preparations to launch another participant into the waters.

"With a double-sided paddle in hand, Furey stretches out a rubber innertube at the end and covers it with duct tape, creating a handle for the wheel chair bound man awaiting his chance to recreate on the calm waters.

"I don't have any grip, so we use an innertube here," the man explains, pointing to the rubber handle that his hands will slip through.

"A new addition to the Mass. Department of Conservation and Recreation's (DCR) universal access program (UAP), kayaking opportunity was part of a state-wide effort to encourage people with disabilities to enjoy the Commonwealth's various state parks, reservations and green spaces...."

Dog-tired (North Reading)

"The dog days of summer came to a close on Labor Day in more ways than one," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Not only did summer officially end on that day, but so will the life of the town's controversial dog park, having closed for good on Sept. 3.

"The Selectmen voted unanimously to order the park closed effective Labor Day, following an hour-long hearing on the matter at which they agreed no new information had been presented.

"This dog park was never formally approved by any town agency," said Selectmen Chairman Robert Mauceri.

"The board, a number of months ago, suggested to Parks and Recreation that this is not a suitable location and suggested another location should be found," he added.

"The Parks and Recreation Committee held a hearing on the dog park issue, listening to the criticisms from neighborhood opponents.

"At the Selectmen's meeting, Recreation Chairman Mike Prisco presented a 12-

READING will be taking on one mission - the fight against cancer, by participating in one walk for one cause - the Jimmy Fund. Join your neighbors in this effort by registering for the 19th annual Boston Marathon* Jimmy Fund Walk. Presented by Hyundai Motor America, the event will be held on Sunday, Sept. 16.

Andrade will join more than 7,000 participants, who are expected to raise $6.3 million for cancer research and care for children and adults at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Over the past 18 years, walkers and their supporters have contributed more than $45 million to Dana-Farber. This funding supports cutting-edge cancer research to find cures and better treatments for all forms of the disease. It also provides special services and assists with costs of patient care and treatment.

The Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk is the only event, other than the Boston Marathon itself, that is sanctioned by the Boston Athletic Association to use the historic 26.2-mile route from Hopkinton to Boston. Walkers can choose from four different routes: 26.2 miles from Hopkinton, beginning at 7 a.m.; or 13.1 miles from Wellesley, at 11 a.m.; 5 miles from Boston College, at 11 a.m.; or the 3-mile route that begins at the Harvard Medical School Quad, at 2 p.m. All walkers finish at the Copley Square finish line.

Participants on the Hopkinton (26.2 miles), Wellesley (13.1 miles) and Boston College (5 miles) routes must raise a minimum of $200 in contributions; for the 3-mile Boston Walk, the requirement is $200 for walkers age 13 and older and $100 for walkers age 12 and younger.

Pacesetters, those who raise $1000 or more, receive special recognition from the Jimmy Fund, and are invited to a celebration at the start of the next Walk season. Participants are encouraged to form teams and walk in honor of those who have been affected by cancer.

"The Walk gives people the opportunity to join a community of friends and families to support cancer research while honoring everyone who is or has been directly affected by the disease," says Ed Wiederhold, director of the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

One in three people will face cancer in their lifetime but no one has to face it alone. Help change the odds by walking or supporting a walker. point plan he said was intended to address the neighbors' concerns in a spirit of compromise, including doubling the height of the park's front fence and installing a keyed gate that would limit park use to those issued a key.

"This is our best chance at a compromise and we hope both sides can live with it," said Art Grossman, chairman of an ad hoc committee that studied the dog park issue.

"But abutters and neighborhood residents who have lived with the park for several years now were not appeased.

"These points do not address the problem of barking dogs, which is a constant problem, said Frank Roberts, 2 Park Street...."

GOOD IDEAS LEAD TO GREAT ACTIONS

Idea of the week (Burlington)

"Fifth grader Brianna Richard and senior citizen Joe Pesti have become fast friends," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The conversation flows easily between them. On the subject of Christmas, Brianna discovered, 'His Christmas was different because they ate a ravioli instead of ham. They got toys and clothes for presents, and I get electronics.'"

"They were both amazed to find out how much they had in common. Joe explained, 'Brianna and I are both the oldest children in our families. I was responsible for my four siblings, and Brianna has one sibling that she helps. I worked at a grocery store at an early age, delivering orders, and working for tips. Brianna works at her aunt's store and earns money from tips.'

"Joe and Brianna certainly bridged the generation gap. After Joe had left, Brianna confided how much she liked him."

"I wish I could stay in touch with him. He's like a grandfather."

"The meeting between a group of children from the Woburn YMCA and the senior citizens is one of the many programs held at the Senior Center. This intergenerational program is sponsored by a grant from Lahey Clinic, and directed by Margie Doyle."

"Jessey St. Jean and Chris Porter had their discussion with Erika Boeck. Jessey asked her what her parents were like."

"Erika replied, 'They were very loving and protective.'"

"Chris wanted to know if she had chores to do. She replied, 'Yes. We had to clean up after ourselves and help out in any way we could. We lived in an apartment in Berlin, Germany. Because it was an apartment, there were less chores to do.'

"Peggy Heneghan was asked by her buddies, Daniel Abel and Tyler Bagley, 'What was it like growing up in your home?'"

"Peggy replied, 'My father died when I was 16. I had three brothers and two sisters. My mother was a hard worker.'

"Tyler told Peggy that his grandfather has seven brothers and five sisters."

"Felicia Warren and Kristyn Laviola explained, 'Taking part in this intergenerational program was an option for us and we wanted to do it...'"

"Council on Aging Coordinator Marge McDonald said, 'The main goal of the center is to keep seniors active and engaged, and to keep them living at home as long as possible. Through activities, exercising and socializing, they maintain strength, agility, balance, and keep their minds sharp....'"

Reaching the STARS (Woburn)

"The school district's STARS program recently concluded yet another successful year, with as many as 60 older students participating in the offering," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"According to Schools' Asst. Supt. Mark Donovan, he was very pleased with the feedback from parents about this year's STARS session, which concluded with the pupils holding a science skit."

"It was beautifully done," said Donovan. "I've never received so many positive comments from parents. In the past, it's been dedicated to students who need extra help. That's traditionally been the program's focus. But this year, we opened it up."

"The STARS program, which is partially funded through a federal No Child Left Behind grant, is offered free of charge. Students receive instruction in math, English, and then use that knowledge to throw a science skit on the last day of the program."

"According to Donovan, although the offering has usually drawn children from grades 3 through 8, the program is open to high school pupils as well...."

Goal-oriented (Wakefield)

"Members of Wakefield's School Committee took part in a workshop in the office of Interim Superintendent of Schools John Landers, who took over the position following the departure of Dr. Maynard Suffredini, Jr.," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"School Committee Chairman Chris Callanan compiled a list of committee goals that were developed by the committee members and at the workshop, the focus was on narrowing and refining the goals."

"I would like to see us agree on about five goals that we can [work to] achieve," Chairman Callanan told his fellow School Committee members."

"The committee came up with two goals relating to public relations. One goal involved an attempt to increase community involvement, while the other goal entailed the establishment of a 'Citizens Education Academy.' Currently, the development and refinement of the School Committee's goals continues."

"In other news, it was announced that School Committee member Kevin Piskadlo has created a new Superintendent Evaluation Tool that will enable the members of the School Committee to conduct a thorough and effective evaluation of the Superintendent of School's performance."

"Piskadlo's system also enables School Committee members to provide feedback and suggestions to the Superintendent of Schools...."

"The School Committee members approved the newly created Wakefield Academy.... Wakefield Academy is designed to provide support to and to grow academic opportunities for high-achieving students within the Wakefield Public Schools."

"Another topic of discussion concerned the Wakefield Public School District's rate of paper goods usage...."

"For the latest school-related news and updates, visit www.wakefield.k12.ma.us."

Bonding with baby through Music Together

According to experts, bonding with children is crucial to social, emotional and cognitive development."

Early Childhood educator Lillian Katz observes that children learn disposition only from parents and their closest caregivers."

There are many ways that parents can bond with their children - from taking them on nature walks to playing with blocks, or listening to music - and they all shape the youngster's future development."

This may explain the soar and popularity of research-based program called Music Together, which finds that children develop a love for music and learning when parents participate with them in a playful, musically rich, nonperformance-oriented learning environment."

Meet Luis

Luis is a sensitive, caring boy who describes himself as smart. He can be outgoing and likes making people laugh. Luis is appreciative of small gestures, like stopping for an ice-cream treat with his social worker. Luis is ready to find a permanent home and will thrive with love and stability."

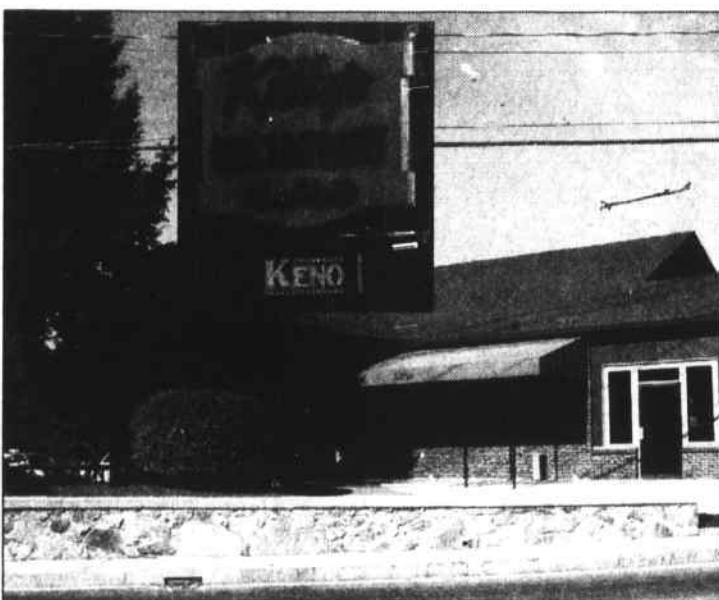

Luis, 11, is an active youngster with varied interests. He enjoys bowling, inline skating and playing video games. When asked what he would like to be when he grows up, Luis says that he would like to be a professional skateboarder, scientist, or an airplane builder. For now, he's pretty good at making different kinds of paper airplanes."

Luis is in the fifth grade and performs at grade level in school. He is an excellent reader and a motivated student who gets all A's and B's. Luis benefits from an individualized education plan that provides him the emotional and social supports he needs. He attends therapy, which is helping him to express his feelings and build his peer relationships. In his current foster home, Luis is generally compliant and follows the household rules."

Ideally, Luis' social worker would like to place him in a two-parent family with parenting experience. Luis would also like to have siblings and would do fine with either children around his age or older. Legally free for adoption, Luis has come so far and will continue to make strides with a family's love and guidance."

To learn more about Luis or about adoption in general, please call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange at 617-54-ADOPT (617-542-3678) or 1-800-882-1176. ## WATERCOLORIST AT STONEHAM LIBRARY

Jeannette Corbett has been displaying her artwork at the Stoneham Library for several years. She grew up in Stoneham, and currently lives in Reading. She has taken many art courses and workshops over the years with noted north shore artists.

This summer she has painted "en Plein air" with her art group "The Warwick Painters" scenes of Stoneham, Melrose, Wakefield, Rockport and Gloucester. They recently hosted an exhibit at the Beebe Estate in Melrose depicting New England scenes. Many of these paintings will be exhibited at the library the month of October, along with watercolors of Italian landscapes and city scenes.

Mrs. Corbett is an active member of the Reading Art Association, Woburn Guild of Artists, Lynnfield Art Guild, Concord Art Association, Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, and an associate member of the Rockport Art Association, and the North Shore Art Association, where she has been awarded many awards. Her art is on display at banks, shops, hospitals and galleries.

FLINT LIBRARY HOSTS SPEAKER

Valerie Martin, author of the forthcoming novel, Trespass, will speak at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading on Friday, September 21 at 7 p.m.

Valerie Martin is the author of three collections of short fiction and seven novels, including Italian Fever, The Great Divorce and Mary Reilly, the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde story told from the viewpoint of the housemaid, which was filmed with Julia Roberts and John Malkovich.

Her novel, Property, won the 2003 Orange Prize. She is also the author of a non-fiction work about St. Francis of Assisi, Salvation, Scenes from the Life of St. Francis.

Her new book, Trespass, set in New York, Louisiana and Croatia has been called "A major novel," by Library Journal. Kirkus Reviews declares it "a brilliant must-read from Martin who captures the zeitgeist of contemporary America within a deeply personal context." Booklist says "Martin is a coolly dispassionate storyteller with a narrative voice that is at once inviting and disquieting."

After her reading, Valerie will answer questions. Copies of her books will be available for signing, through Book Ends of Winchester. The program is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Friends as part of the "Friends Expanding Horizons" series. Call the library at 978-664-4942 for further information.

ORCHID SALE AT LYMAN ESTATE

The Lyman Estate greenhouses will have hundreds of greenhouse grown, healthy orchid plants on sale on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 19, 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Come enjoy the antique greenhouses, built by wealthy Boston merchant Theodore Lyman. Inhale the wonderful scents of the wide variety of orchids on display and for sale. There will be both hard-to-find varieties and easily grown varieties. The selection can not be beat.

Fascination with orchids began in the early 1800s in the United States. Plant breeders continue to hybridize more and more plants, their culture has become less demanding. No longer is a greenhouse required, most species can be grown in a variety of home conditions.
